Widespread Tax Hike Hits U. S. Sunday

TELEPHONING, TRAVELING HIT BY NEW LEVY

Excise Tax to Cost Americans $487,000,000 More This Year Than Last.

OIL PRICES HIGHER

New Taxes Only Small Part Of Program to Raise Six Billions.

Come tomorrow, drinking, smoking, traveling and telephoning will cost more because of new federal excise taxes.

Lubricating oil and photographic apparatus also will be higher for the same reason.

All will cost the American people an estimated $487,600,000 more during the coming year than they did this year

The new excise taxes, the U. S. treasury department pointed out, are only a small part of the increased levies carried in the tax law enacted Oct 21. It figured the new statute will produce $6,881,800,000 more than the present program.

The new excises on liquor will yield an additional $319,800,000, those on tobacco an additional $52,000,000. Other increases from the new taxes include $13,900,000 from lubricating oil; $4,800,000 from photographic apparatus; $25,800,000 from telephone, telegraph, radio and cable facilities and leased wires; $36,800,000 from telephone bills, and $33,900,000 from transportation of persons.

Among the first of the taxpayers to get to work to meet the new excises will be the liquor and tobacco dealers and manufacturers. When they close their doors at the end of today's business they will take inventories of stocks in order to pay the new floor taxes. The floor tax on distilled spirits will be $2 a gallon while that on smoking tobacco, large cigars and cigarets will be equal to the increase in the regular excise tax on these products.

The regular excise on liquor goes from the present $4 a gallon

Showers Fail to Dampen Farewell For Draft Group

Showers of rain and an overcast sky failed to dampen the ardor of Mansfielders who today honored the third group of draftees to leave Mansfield within the week.

Today's contingent of 88 men from Board 2 was the largest of the five groups leaving within a six-day period. Other delegations will leave on Monday and Tuesday.

Meeting at the Chamber of Commerce at 11:30 a. m, the group was honored in talks and with gifts presented by organizations under the auspices of the Richland civic victory committee which arranges for the "send-off" parties. Earl Saltzgaber is head of this committee.

Mansfield Senior high school band headed the march from the Chamber of Commerce to the Erie station where the group entrained at 12:30 p. m.

SENTENCES 3

Judge Sends Company Officials to Jail for Fraud.

CLEVELAND — (U.P.) — Federal Judge Emerich B. Freed yesterday sentenced three former officials of the John Harsch Bronze and Foundry company to jail and fined them on charges of defrauding the government in war contracts.

The men were indicted on charges they removed navy rejection tags from castings and substituted approval tags.

10,000 See Halloween Festivities

Parade, Crowd Remind Them of Fred Hunt's Old Time Parties.

By ESTHER SMITH

If Fred Hunt had looked down on Main street last night to see the hundreds of costumed Halloween paraders and the thousands who milled about to watch their antics, he would have been satisfied.

He would have been pleased to see that Mansfield had not forgotten the "Help Hunt Halloween" parties he staged for 30 years until his death five years ago brought an end to them.

And possibly his eyes moistened a bit if he saw the black and white float which his widow, Mrs. Ada Hunt, entered in the parade. It depicted "the vacant chair" and it was for Fred.

It was his widow who staged this year's festivities in Fred's memory and it was his widow who headed the parade just like Fred used to do.

Police estimated that more than 10,000 persons lined the curbs along the parade route It was a crowd such as attended celebrations back in the "old days" and its size drew as much comment from spectators as the parade itself.

Nearly 500 persons, mostly children, vied for $150 in prizes and they presented a colorful picture in their assortment of costumes that included several highly original outfits along with the usual run of funnyman, clown and Indian garb.

Uncle Sam took the prize for being the best-dressed man while Mae West, Donald Duck and the Reluctant Dragon were among other characters that won a decision from the judges.

Mrs. Hunt donated the cash prizes ranging from $5 to $20 while the corps of judges included C. O. Lister, commander of McVey post of the American Legion, Louis J. Them of The News-Journal and Eddie Mason, another Legionnaire.

Enlivened by the American Legion drum corps the parade moved with a motorcycle escort from the American Legion home to Central park, by way of Main street, and then traversed the entire route a second time.

The float entered by the Richland Civic Victory committee, re-

VETO HINTED

Training Clause Will Bring FDR 'No' on Draft, Belief.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Congressional leaders today expected President Roosevelt to veto the 18 and 19-year-old draft bill if the senate provision requiring one full year's training in the U. S. before combat duty is retained in the measure.

High army officials it was learned, prefer to continue voluntary enlistments of 'teen age youths rather than accept any such rigid restriction on use of troops.

Congressional leaders launched a movement to vote down the bill either in the house or in conference. Speaker Rayburn and Rep. Thomason (D., Tex.) ranking member of the house military affairs committee, were planning a house move to send the bill to conference on Nov. 6.

OUTPUT FROZEN

WPB Fixes Paper Production at Six Months' Average.

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The War Production Board today "froze" production of paper, including paper products and newsprint, at the average for the last six months and said that further curtailments in output and use of these commodities are expected in the "near future."

The WPB action was taken jointly with the wartime prices and trade board in Canada. The WPB said "the ultimate object is to reduce the production of paper products down to an essential level and thereby to release for war purposes labor, power, transportation and materials."

HONORED FOR COURAGE

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Lt. Walter Earle Seamon, jr., of Columbus, now with the U. S. army air forces, has been awarded the Oak Cluster in addition to the Silver Star for bravely in Southwest Pacific action, Columbus friends learned.

2 FUGITIVES FACE RETURN

O.S.R. Inmates Captured After Accident In Muncie, Ind., Superintendent Told.

Two youths who escaped Wednesday from the Ohio State Reformatory farm were arrested today in Muncie, Ind., after an accident with a truck Muncie police said they had stolen there.

Another former reformatory inmate, a Mansfield youth who had been paroled, was being sought near Cincinnati where he abandoned a car stolen two weeks ago from a reformatory guard.

In custody of the Indiana city are: Rolley Smith, 20, of Jackson, and William Morton, 18, of Columbus. Both were working at the institution's farm when they made their escape. Superintendent Arthur L. Glatthe said. Records showed Smith was admitted last Jan. 6 to serve one to 15 years for burglary, while Morton, admitted June 12, 1941, was sentenced to serve one to eight years for auto stealing.

Cincinnati police reported to Richland county sheriff's authorities today that they recovered the car of Don Hendrickson, Mt. Zion road, guard at the reformatory, which was stolen Oct. 22 in Lucas, where Hendrickson was attending church.

The parolee whom Hendrickson believes had stolen the car, was also reported to have been ordered from a Cincinnati address near where the car was picked up, the Cincinnati officers said.

Hendrickson told sheriff's officers he was positive of the identity of the thief since the boy had obtained a ride with him to Lucas and had been seen in Mansfield until about the time the car disappeared.

FOOD CZAR

FDR Considers Appointment To End Confusion.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt today considered appointment of a national wartime food director who would have powers similar to those exercised by Rubber Czar William M. Jeffers.

It was learned that WPB Chairman Donald M. Nelson urged the appointment in a letter to the president stating that lack of coordinated authority has created an impending food crisis. Nelson, it was understood, did not make an specific recommendations for the office of food director.

However, according to well-informed sources, Milo Perkins, executive director of the board of economic warfare, and M. Lee Marshall, president of the Continental Baking company, New York City, are being seriously considered for the job.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Mrs. F. W. Mitchell of Cleveland yesterday received the Distinguished Flying Cross for her son, Lieut. James H. Mitchell, who lost his life in a plane accident at San Francisco airport last June 15.

RENTS GO BACK TO MAR. 1 RATE

Hamilton to Serve 3 Counties As Director; Office to Be Opened Soon.

All residential rents in the Mansfield defense area comprising Richland, Crawford and Ashland counties must be cut to the level of March 1, 1942, according to instructions received yesterday by LeRoy B. Hamilton, area rent director, from the Cleveland headquarters of the Office of Price Administration.

On Nov. 1 tenants are to begin paying no more rent than they were paying on March 1 in this community. Under the maximum rent regulations which have been issued, landlords cannot accept, nor can the tenants pay more rent that that fixed as of March 1, Hamilton's instructions say.

Administration of federal rent control will be handled through an area rent office to be established here by Hamilton, who said he hopes to announce a permanent location within a day or two. The area office will be responsible to the regional office in Cleveland.

Peak employment in the area rent office is expected to be 18 on the staff, with some volunteer workers, later reducing to a regular force of 10, Hamilton tentatively announced yesterday.

Landlords—anyone renting property for living quarters only — must register with the office here Questionnaires will be available at various stations in the tri-county area.

No penalty will apply for rent increases which have been in effect during the March-to-November period but the cutback must be effective as of Nov. 1, Hamilton advised.

IT'S LAST DAY

Sugar Stamp No. 8 Won't Be Good After Tonight.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Today is the last day sugar rationing stamp No. 8, good for five pounds, may be used, state rationing officials warned.

Stamp No. 9 becomes effective Sunday and will be good for three pounds during the period ending Dec. 15.

'WAR SCHOOL' SESSIONS TO DRAW 1,000

Demonstration In Incendiary Control Highlights First Day's Program.

400 IN MORNING CLASS

Sunday Program Starts at 9 A. M., Continues Through Entire Day.

More than 1,000 Mansfield and Richland county men and women interested in civilian defense projects will witness the incendiary demonstration late this afternoon which will feature the first day's sessions of a two-day war production school conducted by Purdue war department experts at Mansfield senior high school auditorium and stadium.

Apparatus manned by members of the city fire department and the civilian defense auxiliary firemen will assist, replacing an enlisted soldier detail which has been ordered back to active duty with the armed forces after several months of demonstration work.

More than 400 civilian defense enrollees, plant protection officers and others interested in guarding the community against enemy attack were present at the opening session at 9 a. m. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense co-ordinator for Mansfield, explained the purpose of the school in his introductory remarks. Mayor W. J. Locke welcomed attendants from 15 surrounding counties as well as local defense workers.

Kalbfleisch again emphasized that sessions are open to all men and women, regardless of whether or not they are affiliated with any civilian defense group.

Major W. L. Gilliland, executive officer of the school; Capt. Moreland M. Humphreys, Capt. George Woodruff and Lieut Calvin Banigan conducted morning classes on blackout methods, plant protection and sabotage. The afternoon program opened with bomb reconnaissance and tactics and effects of aerial bombardment.

The stadium demonstration of incendiaries is scheduled for 3:30 p. m. with control center exercises featuring this evening's program. Capt. Humphreys last night

WELLS POLLUTED

Three More Found In Ontario Typhoid Outbreak Area.

Three new cases of contaminated wells serving private homes in the Ontario region where a threatened typhoid fever epidemic is waning, were reported today by the city-county health department. This brings to 14 the number of wells found to be contaminated or polluted.

Purifying treatments have been applied in a number of the wells under observation.

Springfield township centralized school at Ontario will resume classes Monday. All students have been immunized against the fever and Dr. W. B. Wild, health commissioner, is confident the malady is well under control.

Violations Hit In Blackout Test At Ohio Capital

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Robert S Harsh, army liaison officer, today expressed disappointment over last night's 19-minute trial blackout of metropolitan Columbus and urged the city's defense officials to "run down" all violators.

Colonel Harsh, who viewed the 19-minute test from atop the capital's tallest building, the A.I.U. tower, said he could see "plenty of violations."

Paul R. Gingher, commander of the citizens' defense corps, asserted that violators would be "called in," but did not disclose what action, if any, would be taken against them.

He added that lights left burning "were primarily in business places where no one was in attendance and where air raid wardens could do nothing about it."

The city defense chief praised the speedy darkening of residential sections and said motorists and pedestrians cooperated satisfactorily.

Planes Follow Foe Fleet, Hit Five Warships

First Round of Fierce Battle Goes to American Forces Which Still Control Guadalcanal, Keep Supply Lines Open.

(By United Press)

A note of modified optimism concerning the American position in the Solomons appeared today with word that the Japanese striking fleet had retired from the battle scene for the moment only to suffer new, damaging blows under a hammering U. S. air attack.

Secretary of Navy Frank Knox cautioned at Washington against any quick assumption that our Solomons forces are yet out of the woods.

However, there were signs that the initial round of the all-out struggle for the strategic South Solomons positions had gone to the Americans.

Knox' revelation that the Japanese warships had retired from the combat zone after a hard-hitting exchange with a U. S. striking force was followed by a report that Gen. Douglas MacArthur's heavy bombers had pounded the enemy fleet at Buin in the Northern Solomons.

MacArthur reported a direct hit on a Japanese battleship or cruiser and probable hits on a Japanese carrier, cruiser, a destroyer and an unidentified warship.

The warships presumably were part of the Japanese armada that suddenly retired from the Guadalcanal area when, as Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox put it, the first round of the fierce battle ended with American marines and soldiers in "as complete control as we ever were."

The damage MacArthur's bombers inflicted was considered here as certain to hamper efforts of the enemy to move more reinforcements into Guadalcanal in an attempt to smash defenses at Henderson field, key to the American positions in the Solomons.

On the other hand, Knox reported that U. S. supply lines have been kept open and that the American defenders were reinforced before and during recent operations.

Although his statement was the most encouraging since the Japs launched their land, sea and air offensive last Sunday, Knox cautioned that it should not "give the impression of optimism." Other naval sources here echoed his sentiment, pointing out that the enemy still has a substantial and well-equipped force on Guadalcanal and that its fleet units are powerful.

Knox said the enemy armada—supply ships and transports included—retired from the scene. He said it was known some of the ships returned to their northern bases but he shed no light on presence of the remaining units.

Naval circles, doubting that the enemy had withdrawn entirely from further combat, believe that a strong enemy naval force earlier

PRESSURE: Allies In Egypt Step Up Land and Air Attacks

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—The British Eighth army, having consolidated all gains in its week-old offensive in the Egyptian desert, was reported today by DNB, official German news agency, to have resumed the attack early this morning. Reuters heard the German broadcast.

(By United Press)

CAIRO—The imperial Eighth army today increased both land and air pressure against Marshal Erwin Rommel with American fighters ranging widely over the battle zone and U. S. heavy bombers smashing again at important targets in Crete.

A communique from U. S. army headquarters revealed that a squadron of heavy American bombers attacked Maleme airdrome and Canea on the island of Crete during the night of the 29th and set large fires which were visible 30 miles away.

The blow was designed to hamper Rommel in his efforts to bring up air reinforcements to the desert battle zone.

American fighters and medium bombers blasted at targets on land, including a German battle headquarters in the forward area

The U. S. communique said the American planes "contributed to the maintenance of Allied air superiority" in Egypt and engaged in furious dogfights over the desert.

The American planes were credited with shooting down one Messerschmitt 109 and damaging several others They carried out attacks on the landing ground at

UPSET: Stalingrad Defense Balks Hitler Plans, Say Reds

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—A Communist party spokesman declared today that the Red army's stand at Stalingrad had shattered Adolf Hitler's strategic plan for 1942 which called for seizure of the whole of South Russia in a whirlwind three weeks campaign.

The report on the 100 days battle which started with the Nazi attack on the Don river bends came as dispatches from the fighting front said Soviet forces in Stalingrad were holding their lines despite continuing Nazi assaults.

Writing in the Communist party newspaper Pravda, Grigori Alexandrov, propaganda chief of the party, called the German setback the greatest suffered by the Nazi war machine since the battle for Moscow last autumn.

The Germans, he said, had originally planned to seize Voronezh in August and then sweep forward in a blitz maneuver designed to capture Stalingrad and the entire region of South Russia in three weeks.

Two thousand large calibre guns, he reported, bombarded Stalingrad at the height of the engagement and the Red army on numerous occasions was called on to repulse an entire German division in an attack on a narrow front.

Meanwhile Russian lines held everywhere today, although the size and ferocity of German attacks in the vital Nalchik area of the Caucasus rivaled those in Stalingrad.

The Germans threw 1,000 men and tanks against a factory area in northern Stalingrad in another of innumerable efforts to break through to the Volga river. Three tanks were disabled and 200 Germans killed.

The Communist organ Pravda said the Germans were losing 4,-

Voting, Rationing In Sunday N-J

Tuesday you will vote, if you believe in the things for which Richland county men are fighting on the world's warfronts. And to help you vote correctly for the man and the issues you prefer the Sunday News-Journal presents a voter's primer.

There will be sample ballots and a list of voter's instructions as issued by the county election board. There will be pictures of local candidates, too, with the office each seeks.

* * *

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Driver, you will find a sample of the form you will fill out for gasoline and tire rationing.

* * *

Mansfield has been chosen as the model city for working out Ohio war transportation problems.

In tomorrow's edition you will meet the men who have organized the system, in a picture layout. Text will tell you how they have done their job and what their plans are.

* * *

The city's restaurant men really know there's a war on! They'll tell you how its drain on manpower and its psychology have affected their personnel problems. And one of them hints a probable solution.

* * *

If a feminine voice says, "How many gallons, please?" when you drive into a filling station, you may be surprised. But if you read tomorrow's edition you'll find out just what these women service station attendants think about their work and how they came to take the jobs.

BOY, DID WE HUMP THAT ROCK FROM IT'S SEAT! NOW WE CAN DO SOME REAL DIGGING! GRAB A SPADE, ELMER!
I HURT MY BACK! I BETTER GIT ALONG HOME!
LET 'EM DIG TILL THEY DROP. THEY'LL NOT FIND ANYTHING BURIED THERE I BEAT 'EM TO IT!
THIS LITTLE METAL BOX! BOY, OH, BOY! I WONDER WHAT'S IN IT! MAYBE DIAMONDS! IT'S NOT HEAVY!
FORGRAVE
WERE YOU WATCHING, BETH?
YES, I SAW ELMER GRAB THE BOX AND SLIP OFF WITH IT.
OH, BOY! I CAN HARDLY WAIT TO SEE WHAT'S IN THIS BOX!
SHUCKS! NOTHIN' BUT SOME WRITIN' ON A PIECE OF PAPER! IT SAYS— WAIT A MINUTE!
FORGRAVE
OH, MAN! THIS WRITIN' IS NOTHIN' IN THE WORLD BUT DIRECTIONS TELLIN' WHERE TO DIG TO FIND— IT SAYS —
"IF THE DIRECTIONS ARE FOLLOWED THE FINDER WILL BE WELL REWARDED—"
THAT MEANS JUST ONE THING— TREASURE!
FORGRAVE
NOW LET ME GET THESE DIRECTIONS STRAIGHT. IT SAYS TO START FROM THE ROCK WHERE THIS PAPER WAS FOUND — 10-29
GO A HUNDRED PACES DUE NORTH TO A GIANT OAK - LET'S SEE - DUE NORTH ONE HUNDRED PACES. HUH?
THUNDERATION! THAT'S RIGHT UP TOWARDS BUDDY'S BARN! IF I DIG AROUND UP THERE, THEY'LL SEE ME. THAT WON'T DO!
EV'RYBODY'S GOIN' TO BED! NOW'S MY TIME TO DIG FOR THE TREASURE!
10-30
OH, BOY! THE TOOLS IS RIGHT HERE! IF THEY KNEW WHAT I WAS UP TO, THEY WOULDN'T HAVE LEFT 'EM SO HANDY!
NOW THEN, MOON, GIMME ENOUGH LIGHT, SO'S I CAN SEE TO FOLLOW THESE DIRECTIONS.
SUMP'N'S WRONG! THIS PAPER SAYS: "GO A HUNDRED PACES NORTH TO A BIG OAK." THAT OUGHT TO BE ABOUT HERE!
BUT, HECK! THERE AIN'T NO OAK IN SIGHT!
I'VE BEEN AFRAID ALL ALONG SUMP'N' LIKE THIS WOULD HAPPEN!

LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY

I'M WORRIED - FRIGHTENED! WE'VE HAD NOTHING BUT TROUBLE SINCE THAT LITTLE ORPHAN BRAT CAME TO LIVE HERE
FRIGHTENED, BAH! AS USUAL, YOU'RE ACTING LIKE A STUPID, OLD FOOL. AFTER ALL, SHE'S ONLY A FRIENDLESS WAIF
BUT-
THERE'S NO "BUTS" ABOUT IT! JUST ACT FRIENDLY AND POLITE, UNTIL I PLAN A SAFE WAY TO GET RID OF HER
DARRELL McCLURE
COME ON, ZERO - LET'S GO AN' VISIT THAT NICE, OLD COBBLER. EVERY TIME I LISTEN TO HIM TALK IT MAKES ME FEEL GLAD ALL OVER!
HELLO, ANNIE! YOU WANNA HAVE SOME OF MY CANDY?
NO, THANK YOU. I --
IT WON'T HURT YOU! COURSE, IF YOU WANNA ACT STUCK-UP AN' SNOOTY-
I WOULDN'T ACT STUCK-UP OR SNOOTY!
'CAUSE I HAVEN'T ANYTHING TO BE SNOOTY ABOUT! I KNOW YOU LIKE CANDY AN' THAT'S JUST A LITTLE BAG! SO I'LL JUST TAKE ONE JELLY BEAN
DARRELL McCLURE
TAKE TWO OF THEM! MA TOLD ME TO ACT FRIENDLY WITH YOU, SO I WANNA TELL HER I SHARED MY BAG OF CANDY WITH YOU, THEN MAYBE SHE'LL GIVE ME MONEY TO BUY SOME MORE.
MRS. SMUDGE GAVE YOU A HANDFUL OF COOKIES - ARE YOU SURE? MAYBE YOU WERE ONLY DREAMING. I NEVER HEARD OF HER GIVING ANYTHING TO ANYBODY!
OH! I WASN'T DREAMING! LOOK, HERE'S ONE OF THE COOKIES! I WAS KINDA SURPRISED, 'CAUSE I THOUGHT MRS. SMUDGE DIDN'T LIKE ME VERY MUCH, BUT I GUESS SHE DOES 10-28
'CAUSE YESTERDAY HER BOY, HORACE, GAVE ME TWO JELLY BEANS AN' HE SAID HIS MOTHER TOLD HIM TO BE NICE TO ME!
DARRELL McCLURE
SO MRS. SMUDGE ORDERED HORACE TO BE NICE TO YOU? THEN MY ADVICE TO YOU IS TO WATCH YOUR STEP. WHEN MRS. SMUDGE STARTS ACTING NICE, SHE'S PLANNING MISCHIEF!
YES, DOCTOR, I FEEL SPLENDID! I FEEL LIKE A DIFFERENT PERSON FROM THE MORBID, MELANCHOLY INVALID I USED TO BE!
I CAN NEVER THANK YOU ENOUGH FOR YOUR SKILL AND PATIENCE
THERE ARE NO THANKS DUE ME, FOR YEARS MY MEDICINE WAS USELESS
10-29
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
THEN A KINDLY PROVIDENCE ORDAINED A REAL HEALER TO VISIT YOU, A HEALER WHOSE ONLY MEDICINE IS SYMPATHY, TENDERNESS AND SUNNY SMILES
YOU MEAN LITTLE ANNIE?
DARRELL McCLURE
OF COURSE! SHE SUCCEEDED WHERE I FAILED! YOU AND I HAVE EVERY REASON TO GIVE FULL CREDIT AND SINCERE THANKS TO LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY, M.D.!
YOU SAY MR AND MRS. SMUDGE ARE ACTING VERY FRIENDLY TOWARDS YOU?
YES, THEY ALWAYS SAY, "HELLO!" AND GIVE ME COOKIES AND APPLES!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
FRIENDLY, EH? DON'T LET 'EM FOOL YOU WHEN THOSE TWO ACT FRIENDLY, IT'S A VERY DANGEROUS SIGN! THAT'S AS PLAIN AS A BRICK ON A BILLIARD TABLE!
A BRICK ON A--
THAT REMINDS ME! LAST WEEK MR. SMUDGE WAS FIXING THE CHIMNEY AN' A BRICK SLIPPED OUTA HIS HAND AN' JUST MISSED HITTING ME ON THE HEAD! AFTER THE BRICK LANDED, HE HOLLERED, "LOOK OUT BELOW!"
10-30
DARRELL McCLURE
AFTER THE BRICK LANDED, HE WARNED YOU? NICE, FRIENDLY CHAP, THAT SMUDGE -- A BIT TOO FRIENDLY. I WOULDN'T BE SURPRISED IF A TON OF BRICKS DON'T LAND ON HIM REAL SOON -- AND HE WON'T GET HIS WARNING UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE!
HEY, ANNIE, WAIT! I GOT SOME CANDY FOR YOU AND I WANNA TELL YOU SOMETHING!
Copr. 1942, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
THANK YOU, BUT I CAN'T WAIT NOW. I GOTTA SEE SOMEBODY 'BOUT SOMETHING IN A TERRIBLE HURRY!
THAT SCRUBBY LITTLE FOOL MAKES ME SICK. IF MA DIDN'T MAKE ME ACT NICE TO HER, I BETCHA I'D TEACH HER A FEW TRICKS
OH, WELL, I AIN'T KICKIN' - I CAN EAT ALL THE CANDY, MYSELF, AND MA CAN'T BLAME ME, 'CAUSE I TRIED TO BE NICE TO THE STUPID BRAT!

Expect Only 35,000,000 to Go to Polls

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

This Is the Army, Mr. Jones.

THE 200 soldiers in Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army," are enjoying a well-earned furlough this week—their first since the show opened almost five months ago—and most of them have returned to New York to spend their vacation in the vicinity of Broadway.

Kilgallen

These boys represent a pretty good cross-section of the army having been called from Army posts all over the country, from Maine to Texas. Talking to them, you get a good idea of what Uncle Sam's new soldier is like inside his uniform—what his foibles are, his favorite jokes, his opinions, his preferences, his hates. Talking to them, you get a pretty clear composite picture of the Yankee doughboy, 1942 model, and you realize a few things that perhaps you didn't know before . . . You realize this doughboy isn't just an infantryman. He's a specialist, because this is a war of skill and science, not just gun-toting. This doughboy doesn't want any safe, soft spot berth in the army.

He's itching to get overseas and take a crack at the Nazis and Japs—and when his job with the show is finished, that's what he'll do . . . He can't understand why everyone makes a fuss over him and treats him like a hero. Personally, he's sorry he waited to be drafted instead of enlisting on Dec. 7.

* * *

Clark Gable is a hero to Our Doughboy—not because of all the flowery tripola he's read about the screen idol in the movie magazines, but because he feels that Gable made a genuine contribution to the war effort by setting a fine example for other men of wealth and position to follow . . . He can't understand why some men try to pull strings to get commissions. He'd like to have a commission, of course, but he'd like to earn it, the hard way.

* * *

His idea of real luxury is to be able to sleep until 7 a. m. . . . When he writes home, he never tells his folks about the tougher aspects of army life. Only how swell he feels and how tongh he is now . . . He's mighty proud of the stripes on his sleeves even if his is only a Pfc.'s lonely chevron, because he knows he earned it by the sweat of his patriotism . . . He keeps Betty Grable's picture in his locker but his favorite girl is his mother . . . The biggest thrill he can get is hearing his name read off at mail-call.

* * *

He's learning to "roll his own" because that's the only alternative to cutting down on the number of cigarets he's accustomed to smoking . . . His favorite game isn't gin rummy, it's blackjack . . . He has a fierce hatred of Hitler, because he holds the fuehrer responsible, more than any other individual for upsetting his life . . . He thinks the American people are pretty wonderful, and tells you that complete strangers regularly send him warm, friendly letters of cheer and encouragement.

* * *

He doesn't take his mother for granted any more. Since he's done K.P. and chores like scrubbing floors and sewing buttons on clothes, he realizes that his mother's been a soldier all along, even though she never worn a uniform . . . His favorite song is "I Left My Heart At the Stage Door Canteen," because he's done it, himself . . . He can't understand why some people regard themselves as heroes just because they buy war bonds. He buys them every pay day because he considers them a darn good investment.

* * *

His taste runs to Shakespeare and classical music, and you'd be surprised how much he knows about the finer things in life . . . He's fed up with the artificial jukebox ballads and is longing for a good rousing song like "Over There" . . . He can't understand why so much fuss is made over civilian morale. In his dictionary, morale means being able to take it, the way the bombed Londoners did—not the business of having-as-much-fun-as-usual during an all-out war.

* * *

He gets more pleasure out of a shower bath than a show . . . He's not worried about what Santa Claus will put in his stocking, but he hopes somehow ships will get through with Christmas packages to the boys in Egypt and Guadalcanal . . . He'd love to drive a jeep . . . He's proud of his uniform, and leans over backwards to be courteous to civilians because he wants them to get a good impression of Uncle Sam's army . . . He can't get very excited about sugar-rationing or subway dimouts, because he is willingly submitting to a dimout of practically all comfort and pleasure, and perhaps his life . . . Of course, he just adores people who say, "Pretty soft for you—living off the government."

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Glamour factory at war:

One office wall at M-G-M studios is decorated today with the framed likenesses of seven men, set apart from the usual personality photos that clutter up studio walls.

The faces are those of James Stewart, Robert Montgomery, Clark Gable, Lew Ayres, Ray MacDonald, Richard Ney and Dan Dailey, jr.

These are of course, the Met-actors now in the armed forces. And that panel, which could be duplicated on all the lots, tells the prideful tale that has Hollywood hanging on the ropes—waving the flag vigorously with one hand but chewing the nails of the other hand in anxiety.

Coons

* * *

In this Metro list, which will grow larger are four established box-office names no longer available for pictures. The last-named three are young fellows who, before joining up, had shown promise of building into importance.

At neighboring 20th, they are contemplating the prospect that, ere long, all their films requiring star names, masculine, will have to call on Don Ameche, father of four and their sole remaining glamour boy or on Monty Woolley, Tyrone Power, Henry Fonda, and Cesar Romero have wound up their film careers for the service, John Payne is looking toward the air force, and George Montgomery, who talks of the merchant marine, is not likely to be around long.

On other lots the situation is parallel.

"It used to be," mourned a director, "that if you couldn't get Gable you could get a Gable substitute. Now the substitutes are gone, and you have to look for subs for the subs—but the other pictures beat you to 'em. If there isn't some arrangement made for us to borrow back a few players from the army, pretty soon we'll have to shut up shop."

* * *

That—or get along without the old star names. There still are plenty of actors, especially in the character division.

This suggests a concentration on stories featuring older men and women—folsky yarns with a special appeal for the older movie audiences of war times.

And more to the point, it suggests a concentration on stories, strong stories, rather than stars. Typical may be "The Moon Is Down," film version of Steinbeck's novel. Nunnally Johnson, who has done a punchy script, will have no stars names in the cast. Henry Travers, Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Dorris Bowdon, Margaret Wycherly, Dudley Digges are not "names" in the marquee sense. They are all excellent actors.

So it could be that at last, under stress of war, the play indeed will be the thing.

Chatter Corner

A soldier wearing a cellophane food protector to save the top of his cap . . . County Schools Superintendent Boyd Robinson trying desperately to locate a home economics teacher to replace Miss Edna Burchin, of Lima, Butler teacher who left yesterday to accept a position with the farm security administration.

* * *

Mrs. T. J. Santore, North Diamond street, preparing to leave to join her husband stationed on Staten Island . . . An old ballot, of 1891 in the days before the Australian system was in use, arriving in the morning mail of County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe. His father's name headed the ballot as he was a candidate for common pleas judge in that year . . . Eugene Ralph Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis, Bellville R. D. 2, beginning recruit training at Great Lakes.

* * *

Mrs. D. N. Roller speaking before a Red Cross home nursing class yesterday as a volunteer who has already taken the course . . . Mrs. Robert Crane aiding a group of grade school girls to hold a wiener roast at the Y. W. C. A. today . . . Mrs. Ella B. Taylor receiving word that her son, Robert L. Taylor, located at Fort Sill, Okla., has been promoted to the rank of corporal.

ASKS FOR COAST GUARD HELP IN OHIO WALKOUT

Cincinnati City Manager Says Watchmen Abandon Water Intake.

(By International News Service)

CINCINNATI—As Cincinnati's strike of municipal waterworks, waste collection and street crews entered its fourth day, City Manager C. O. Sherrill today appealed to the U. S. coast guard for assistance.

Sherrill reported that, city watchmen, charged with guarding a water intake-valve on the Kentucky side of the Ohio river, had left their posts, supposedly in line with the city employes' union's demanding a 25 per cent wage boost above current scales of 40 and 60 cents an hour.

Answering the request for help, Commander John Rountree assured city officials that "adquate" protection would be provided for the vital valve.

Cincinnati's utilities service was threatened on a new front as 625 gas maintenance workers joined the 1,600 municipal employes who have been on strike since Wednesday.

Employes of the Cincinnati Gas and Electric company quit work, they said, on grounds that the company planned to discharge 75 employes without recognition of seniority. Later the walkout spread to a subsidiary company.

Meanwhile, Attorney Stanley Denlinger, counsel for all of the striking groups, asked transfer to federal court of an injunction suit filed by the city to bar picketing at its plants.

Gas company officials asserted the strike was unauthorized as city officials disclosed plans to consider an ordinance to increase wages of all city employes receiving less than $3,000 a year.

Both water and gas service remained normal and gas workers promised to provide vital needs during the dispute.

Carl Eberling, water plant superintendent, said absence of filter attendants threatened one of the most vital functions of the water system and might force a total shutdown.

The water works has a clear water reserve supply of only 30 million gallons against a daily consumption of 63 million gallons, Eberling said.

PLAN FOR CALL

Red Cross Prepares For New Visit By Blood Donor Unit.

With a reservoir of close to 800 volunteer blood donors upon which to draw for the next two months, Richland county chapter of the Red Cross stood ready today to call 300 volunteers into service for the first in a series of monthly visits to be made to this area by the Cleveland blood donor mobile unit.

The unit will visit Mansfield Nov. 16-17, John H. Finefrock, county blood donor chairman, was informed today and the same procedure will prevail that was used on the two previous visits of the mobile unit. Bethany House of First Presbyterian church will continue as a donation center.

Lists of volunteer donors from the various Mansfield industries continue to stream into the Red Cross office and so far more than 500 industrial workers have signified their willingness to donate to the service.

CONFER AGAIN ON CANDIDATES

League of Women Voters to Make Final Check Prior To Voting Tuesday.

Richland county League of Women Voters will meet Monday night in the Chamber of Commerce rooms for another look at the qualifications of the candidates before going to the polls Tuesday to vote.

The two members who introduced both Republican and Democratic candidates at a recent meeting of the league will again review their qualifications. Mrs. Clark Brook will speak for the Democrats and Mrs. Russell Moore for the Republicans.

League members will also be informed again in the technique of marking the ballots so that none will be lost through improper marking. Mrs. O. D. Meese, league president, said.

Miss Lois MacKellar, chairman of government and economics, will conduct a discussion on civil service and the local commission will be represented by Atty. George Biddle. Mrs. George Holland will report on an interview with Representative John L. Catlett regarding the state civil service.

The judicial ballot and also the proposed amendment to the constitution of Ohio will be explained by Mrs. T. J. McDermott. The amendment sets up means by which court vacancies will be filled by appointment by the governor until a successor is named.

Meanwhile the league is distributing 5,000 circulars this weekend as another method of emphasizing the importance of voting. Boy Scouts are handling the distribution.

INFANT DIES

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Zody Succumbs at Hospital.

LOUDONVILLE — Steven Edward Zody, seven-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Zody of Loudonville, died Friday at 6 p. m. at Mansfield General hospital.

Funeral services were to be conducted at 4 p. m. today with Rev. George Schrack of Perrysville in charge. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery at Perrysville.

ILLNESS FATAL

Miss Ozella Young, 62, Dies At Home of Sister.

SHILOH — Miss Ozella Mae Young, 62, life-long Richland county resident, died early Saturday at the home of her sister, Mrs. L. K. Sheriff, in Franklin township after a lingering illness.

She was born in Richland county Feb. 7, 1880, and was a member of the Methodist church at Adario.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 2:30 p. m. in the Adario church. Burial will be in the Adario cemetery.

Surviving are the mother, Mrs. Mary A. Young of Adario; two sisters, Mrs. Sheriff and Mrs. Grace Kissell of Mansfield, and a brother, Clifford Young of Shiloh.

HERO'S FATHER ACCEPTS AWARD

Given Medal for Boy Who Drowned In Rescue Attempt.

PITTSBURGH—(AP)—The Carnegie hero fund commission yesterday awarded a bronze medal posthumously to Jerome F. Hempfling, 12, of Zanesville, O., who drowned last May 28 while attempting to rescue a playmate from the Muskingum river.

The boy's father, Raymond M. Hempfling, received the medal awarded for the youth's outstanding bravery in attempting to rescue Richard J. Hupp, 12, who fell from a cable into the water about 10 feet from shore.

SAN FRANCISCO HAS ALERT

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— Unidentified planes later found to be friendly caused the 65-minute air raid alert before noon in the San Francisco bay area yesterday, the army announced. It was the first alert here since Aug. 13 and the 24th of the war.

SWELL PRESSURE ON AXIS FORCES

Allies Batter Rommel From Land and Air, Start Big Fires In Crete.

Daba and scored a number of hits on grounded aircraft.

In an Allied attack on the El Adem airgrounds at least four Junkers 52 transport planes were set afire and Axis fighters on the ground near Bagush were damaged and at least two destroyed.

The enemy sent several counter-attacks against the new British positions Thursday night and yesterday, the communique said, but they were hurled back with heavy losses.

Allied air superiority continued as the offensive for North Africa entered its second week. Nine Axis planes were destroyed yesterday, with only three Allied planes being lost in all operations, including those over Malta.

Front dispatches indicated that the Allied command considered the results of the first week satisfactory. Correspondents reported that the imperials had gained and held all objectives Montgomery had set for them. Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Afrika Korps had launched heavy counter-attacks which were crushed.

Axis Bolsters Air Power In Desert

ALLIED AIR FORCES HEADQUARTERS IN THE WESTERN DESERT—(U.P.)—The Axis appears to be bringing in aerial reinforcements in an effort to stem the Allied offensive which is gradually increasing in intensity.

Yesterday, 30 Nazi dive bombers tried a daylight raid which was frustrated by the appearance of a large number of Allied fighters. The Germans' fighter cover was weak, so their bombing was hurried and ineffective. Our fighters failed to make contact with the enemy planes by only a few seconds.

INJURIES FATAL

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Fred Banks, 60, struck by an automobile Thursday while walking in the Lockbourne road, died at Mercy hospital. His death raised the Franklin county traffic toll to 33 for the year.

Laff-a-Day

"But don't you have any closed models for winter riding?"

A Mansfield soldier, Pvt. George R. Kanz, couldn't stop off at home when he passed through the city on a troop train last Sunday, but he left a token for members of his family and friends. While at work east of the city, Lewis Walter Goings, 383 East First street, colored trackman for the Pennsylvania railroad, found a piece of watch strap carefully wrapped in a note from Kanz. The note listed the soldier's address in Atlantic City, N. J., and bore this message: "Passed through Sunday morning to places unknown. Home in Mansfield."

About four-fifths of the 5,000 Richland county men in service are going to be without greeting cards from the Richland Civic Victory committee unless addresses start pouring into the American Legion home immediately. Mrs. Florence Blunk, president of the Navy Mothers, said today that when the women finished the addresses on hand they had only 761 cards ready for mailing not even one-fifth of the number they expected.

Army officers here with the Purdue-War department war protection school probably are the most surprised persons in Mansfield. These experts, accustomed to conducting schools in much larger cities, indicated they wouldn't expect to see 400 people at any of the week-end classes. Saturday morning's first assembly at 9 found that many in the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium, with others arriving constantly. Local leaders, elated with the response to the school call, concluded that Mansfielders are vitally interested in civilian defense although only one piece of publicity had been received from the Fifth region defense office which set up the school at the request of Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, defense co-ordinator, who received two meager releases from state headquarters—all tardy.

SEVEN ARRESTED

State Patrolmen Keep Close Check on Route 42.

Lawrence H. Webber, Elyria, among the seven autoists arrested early this morning and last night by state highway patrolmen on the charge of speeding on U. S. route 42, was cited to appear for hearing Nov. 6 in municipal court before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch.

Posting $16.30 bond and signing appearance waivers in municipal court were Milway Arbutina, Cleveland; Herman Cochrun, Akron; William Young, Cleveland; Edwin G. Smith, truck driver from Fredonia, N. Y., and Joe A. Zimmerman, Indianapolis, Ind. Also cited on a speeding charge was Raymond F. Caskey, Akron, who posted a $16 bond in Ashland police court.

DIES FRIDAY IN TIFFIN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Myrtle Ernsberger Had Suffered Heart Attack.

Mrs. Myrtle Ernsberger, wife of L. E. Ernsberger, 93 Dawson avenue, died Friday night in Mercy hospital, Tiffin.

Mrs. Ernsberger had suffered a heat attack several weeks ago.

Besides her husband, survivors include: one son, Karl Ernsberger, South Diamond street; one daughter, Mrs. Thelma Pardy, Tiffin, and four grandchildren, Charles T. Purdy, of Tiffin, and Jerry, Joyce and Edwin Ernsberger, of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Monday from the Myers funeral home in Tiffin with burial at Fremont.

TOWN BOMBED

Women Killed In Nazi Raid Over East Anglia.

LONDON —(AP)— One woman was killed and several persons were injured today when a German daylight raider dove through the clouds over an East Anglian village and dropped several bombs.

Another plane machine-gunned the district near a coastal village. There were no casualties, but a cow was killed.

EXPERTS SEE WAR BRINGING LIGHT VOTING

Absence of Service Men From Home Also Cited as Election Factor.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—A canvass of the best available sources indicated today that because of the war and an apparent general apathy toward politics only between 33,000,000 and 35,000,000 persons are likely to vote in next Tuesday's elections. War developments could change the estimate.

This is at least 15,000,000 under the record-breaking turnout in the presidential year of 1940 and is also below the total vote for congress in the off-year elections of 1938. Some estimates placed this year's probable vote even lower—at the level of the congressional elections of 1934 when only 32,800,000 cast ballots.

An Associated Press compilation of official registrations and unofficial estimates of eligible voters by states showed that 53,613,052 had qualified to vote Tuesday. Allowing for more than the usual number of stay-at-homes because of the war, it was calculated that 34,826,841 would vote.

This 65 per cent of the eligibles compares with about 75 per cent in normal off-year voting and 80 to 85 per cent in presidential elections.

Officials based their light vote predictions on the fact that hundreds of thousands have joined the armed forces and few will take the trouble to vote although where possible they may do so by mail. Reports received here at one of the campaign headquarters said that out of 6,000 men in the armed services from one unnamed Pennsylvania county only 250 had applied for ballots.

General disinterest, migration of workers who have not lived in their new states long enough to qualify and may not trouble themselves to vote by mail in the old; gasoline and tire rationing—all will serve to keep the balloting light, officials said.

President Roosevelt yesterday urged all citizens to go to the polls Tuesday because, as he put it, ballots were as necessary as bullets in keeping democracy alive.

M'Sweeney Meets Bricker Today In Campaign Debate

(By Associated Press)

Gov. John W. Bricker, seeking a third term, and his Democratic opponent, John McSweeney, meet face-to-face today before the Cleveland City club to debate campaign issues.

The meeting, three days before election, climaxes a campaign enlivened recently by charges of old age pension manipulation and personality attacks.

McSweeney told 450 Democratic women in Cincinnati last night if the city had received "its proper share of the Bricker surplus, you would have had the money to pay city employes" now striking for higher wages.

"This is just one more phase of the double taxation I have been stressing," he asserted.

Bricker, in two addresses in Toledo, said he found a $40,000,000 state debt in 1938 and had worked it into a $20,000,000 surplus.

Local governments must be preserved because democracy exists in community government, he declared, opposing a high degree of centralization in the federal administration.

CELEBRATION ENDS IN JAIL

WILLARD—Cases of William Oliver Swafford and Charles Barnhart, taken to the city jail last night on the charges of disturbing the peace and intoxication during a Halloween celebration, will be heard this afternoon before Mayor E. L. Wolff.

Swafford, who recently moved here from Akron to be employed by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad company, became violent after being put in jail, attendants reported, and set fire to his mattress. He then proceeded to tear out the plumbing and smash his window. Marshal L. M. Riddle had to call a physician to treat lacerations on his hands, attendants said.

DATES To Remember

JAP RETREAT IN SOLOMONS CHEERS U. S.

Planes Follow Enemy Fleet, Batter Five Jap Warships In Air Attack.

this week was in action some 400 miles northeast of Guadalcanal and might be preparing to strike at other American bases in the Pacific.

Although Knox said suggestions along this line were "pure speculation" he added that the enemy units could "attack anywhere."

The marines and soldiers on Guadalcanal have withstood 15 attacks, including two abortive break-throughs, in a week of sporadic fighting. But in recent days, ground activity largely has been confined to small patrol skirmishes.

It was that situation, plus withdrawal of the enemy fleet, that moved Knox to tell reporters that the 'first round of the Solomons battle is over and they're waiting for the second round to start."

Asked how the Americans had fared "on points," he replied:

"We are still in Guadalcanal, occupying every inch of ground we ever controlled. We are in complete control of the situation on Guadalcanal—as complete as we ever were."

Evidence of the extent to which the Japanese had made preparations to drive the Americans out was contained in the navy disclosure that 12 enemy light tanks had been destroyed during the last week.

Hints New Raids Against Jap Cities

NEW DELHI—(U.P.)—Brig. Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of U. S. air forces in China, Burma, and India, hinted at new American aerial assaults on Japanese cities today.

"I wouldn't say we're too far from the Japanese cities," he said. "They've been hit and they'll be hit again."

He promised that the Japanese "will never stop" the movement of American supplies to China by air.

He said the Japanese, in raids during the past week on northeast Assam bases, probably were seeking to cripple the air freight route. Bissell declined to amplify his statement that the supplies would never be halted, adding that "I'd rather the Japanese would learn why—at our price."

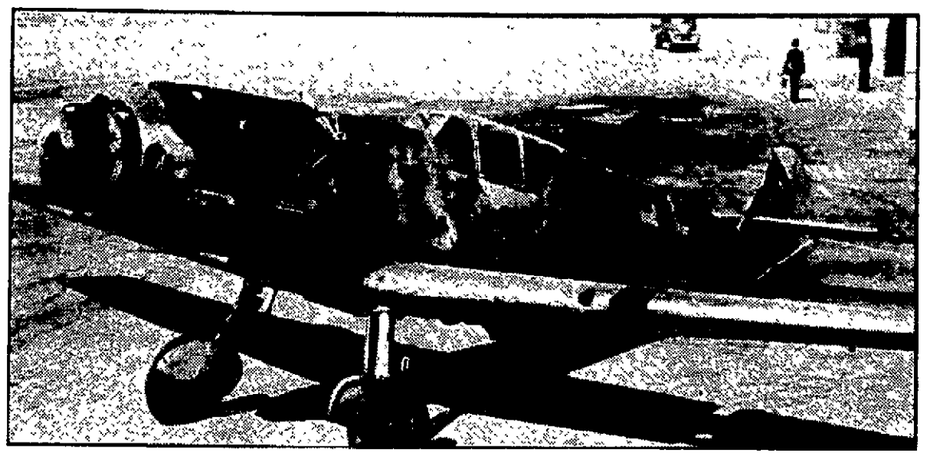
Japs Give Version Of Wasp Sinking

(By United Press)

Japan published its version of the sinking of the aircraft carrier Wasp today, proclaiming that the submarine which sank her on Sept. 15 had damaged two other American carriers on Aug. 31 and Sept. 5.

The Japanese version, broadcast by radio Tokyo and recorded by the United Press listening post in New York, was a patent duplication of the account released by the navy department in Washington.

Messerschmitt Arrives for Display In City



A Nazi Messerschmitt fighter plane that's now helping American boys instead of Hitler, arrived in Mansfield this morning by truck to go on display at the R. E. Moorhead showrooms, 37 Park avenue west. The former pride of Hitler's Luftwaffe will be shown from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily for the next four days for the benefit of the Navy Mothers club and the Naval Aid auxiliary. Trophy stripes on the tail of the plane next to the swastika emblem show that the German pilot shot down eight Allied planes before he met the same fate. Through use of a public address system, visitors in the showroom are told the story of the plane's last flight and interesting features of the Nazi fighter ship.

NEW TAX HITS MANY ITEMS

Cost of Smoking, Drinking, Telephoning and Travel Rises Tomorrow.

to $6. The tax on beer rises a dollar a barrel to $7, while that on wine increases from eight to 10 cents a gallon if not more than 14 per cent alcohol, 30 to 40 cents on wine between 14 per cent and 21 per cent, and from 65 cents to $1 between 21 per cent and 24 per cent. The tax on champagne and other natural sparkling wine goes from 7 to 10 cents on a half-pint, and from 3½ to 5 cents a half-pint on artificially carbonated wines.

Taxes on large cigars have been increased from $2 a thousand to $2.50 for the cheapest grades with proportionate increases for higher grades up to $20 a thousand for those costing more than 20 cents instead of the present rate of $13.50.

Cigaret taxes go up 25 cents to a new levy of $3.50 a thousand for those weighing not more than three pounds a thousand. Taxes on heavier cigarets rise from $7.80 to $8.40 a thousand. Cigaret smokers who buy only one pack at a time will pay an additional cent to meet the excise increase of one-half cent, but if they purchase two packs they will pay only an additional cent for both.

Beginning tomorrow, telephone messages will be taxed 20 per cent of the total charge instead of the present sliding scale of 5 cents on calls costing 25 to 50 cents and an additional 5 cents for each further 50 cent-toll or fraction. Similarly, monthly telephone bills will be taxed 10 per cent instead of the present 6 per cent.

Travel taxes, including levies on seats and berths, will be doubled for civilians with a rate of 10 per cent instead of five.

Taxes on lubricating oil will rise from 4½ to six cents a gallon.

Representative women of the parish will attend an Episcopal regional meeting in Mt. Vernon all day Wednesday.

'Men God Has Used' Topic of Sermon

Rev. Elwyn Owen has chosen for his sermon theme tomorrow at Mayflower Congregational church, "Men God Has Used," and a ladies' quartet will sing "I Find Thee So Precious," by McGranahan for the morning worship service.

The Mayflower Messenger, official monthly news-letter of the church, will be distributed following the morning service. At 4 p. m. the Junior fellowship will meet for election of officers and the Pilgrim fellowship will have an installation-communion service at 7 p. m.

Ladies' Bible class will meet at the home of Mrs. Mayme Fankhauser, 310 Harker street.

Mrs. E. M. Southward was named general chairman to head the committees in charge of homecoming to be celebrated at the church Nov. 15.

Guest Speaker at Fellowship Meeting

Mrs. Howard Hannaford of Springfield, will be the speaker at the annual World Fellowship meeting at the Y. W. C. A. membership Friday, Nov. 6, at the building at 7:30 p. m.

Mrs. Hannaford formerly served as a Y. W. C. A. secretary in Japan. Her subject has not been announced. Arrangements for the meeting are in charge of the world fellowship committee headed by Mrs. C. J. Kalstein.

Bible Conference To Continue

The Bible conference will continue through Sunday at the Main Street Evangelical church with Dr. W. T. Reed of Cincinnati as the guest speaker. For the 10:30 a. m. service the Woman's Missionary society will observe their annual thank offering program.

Sermon topics for Dr. Reed's three addresses at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 7:30 p. m. are: "The Assyrian Anti-Christ, Contests Messiah's Claims," "Messiah Wins and Establishes Victory" and "Human Happiness Under Messiah's Triumphant Sway."

Hold Booth Festival At Franklin Church

Youth fellowships of Richland county Methodist churches will hold a booth festival at the Franklin church, Nov. 5 at 7:30 p. m. in which several speakers of the state will participate including Rev. R. H. Walker from Ohio Wesleyan university.

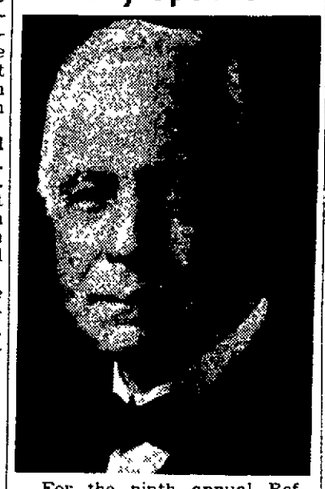
In addition to a minstrel show from Lincoln Heights school, instrumental numbers and singing, Miss Brown, captain of the Salvation Army in Cleveland, will speak.

The various congregations will donate canned goods, vegetables, linens and other products. A part of the money from these donations will go to charity and the remainder to the Youth Fellowship movement.

Missionary to Give Address

For both the Sunday school and church services at St. John's church, Dr. Harold Freund, recently returned missionary from India, will speak on "India's Future." Assisting in the service the choir will sing, "Mighty Jehovah" directed by John C. Klinger.

Rally Speaker



For the ninth annual Reformation Rally Sunday at 7:30 p. m. at the First Lutheran church in which members and ministers from United Lutheran congregations in Richland and Ashland counties will participate. Dr. Arthur H. Smith, pastor emeritus of the Trinity Lutheran church in Ashland, will be speaker. Rev. Edmont P. Hains will speak in the First United Brethren church at 9:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. on subjects relating to Bible prophecy and the present world war.

Monday evening at 7:30 p. m. he will present a pageant on the seven churches or church ages of Revelation depicting church history down to the present times.

Lesson-Sermon Topic Announced

"Everlasting Punishment" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in the Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

It will have for the Golden Text: "My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord; neither be weary of his correction; for whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth." (Proverbs 3:11,12).

Bible Services To Be Conducted

Beginning Monday evening and continuing until Nov. 15, revival services will be held each day at 7:30 p. m. except Saturdays, at the Evangelical Congregational church by the pastor, Rev. R. W. Tanbenheim assisted by Rev. Paul D. Dunn of Findlay. Song services will be in charge of Miss Helen Hess.

New Pastor To Be In Charge

Sunday at 11 a. m. in the Mitchell Chapel A. M. E. will mark the first celebration of the holy eucharist of the conference year with the new minister, Rev. A. Seon Henri.

Mrs. Henri will sing the offertory solo, "How Much I Owe." A report on the North Ohio conference will be given by Mrs. Addie Mae Hill, delegate.

At 8 p. m. Tuesday a special meeting of the official board will be held in the parsonage with the ministers presiding.

Guest Sunday to Be Observed

"An Invitation to Worship" is the sermon subject selected by Rev. Edward G. Corwin for the First Methodist church service at 10:30 a. m. Sunday, which has been designated as Guest Sunday.

"Souvenir" will be the organ prelude by Mrs. Elsie Ireland and under the direction of Mrs. W. J. Hazeltine, the choir will sing Gounod's "Send Out the Light." Mrs. Hazeltine will sing the offertory solo, "The Living God" by O'Hara.

SECRETARY OF MISSION UNIT TO GIVE TALK

Dr. J. R. Scotford to Speak at Congregational Church on 'Architecture.'

Dr. John R. Scotford, secretary of the promotion and missionary education division of Congregational board of Home Missions, will preach on "Our Patriot Dream" during the morning worship services for First Congregational church meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church and in the evening at 8 p. m. he will speak at an open house meeting of the parish at the parish house on the subject, "Church Architecture."

Under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr, the choir will sing, "Out of the Depths I Cry to Thee," by Bach and Miriam Culler will offer "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains," by Harker. During the church hour there will be classes for children from two to eight years of age at the Baptist church.

Hostesses for the open house are Mrs. W. P. Wolcott, Mrs. Fannie Carrier, Mrs. E. K. Troll, Mrs. E. W. Loughridge, Mrs. Donald Black and Mrs. George Kirtley.

The second in the current series of book reviews by Mrs. W. E. Benninghoff, Cleveland, will be given Friday at 2:15 p. m. at the First Presbyterian church. "The Day of Ofelia" by Gertrude Diamant is the book to be discussed.

Mrs. C. W. Fox and Mrs. Peter Young will be delegates to the annual meeting of Congregational church women of Ohio in Painesville, Thursday and Friday.

The board of trustees announced that the board has invested $100,000 in war bonds, the limit allowable in one year, and will invest approximately $37,000 more in bonds next March. For purchasing and furnishing the parish house, and cleaning up the church site $13,000 was used, the board said.

Last Sunday evening the Junior High Pilgrim fellowship elected the following officers: William Edwards, president; Richard Parsons, vice president; Verna Beth Graham, secretary; Robert Little, treasurer; Jean Curry, program chairman; and Ann Parsons, social chairman.

'Give Christ Credit,' Topic of Sermon

Services for the 9:45 a. m. worship hour at the First Lutheran church will include Rev. Grover E. Swoyer's sermon entitled, "Give Christ Credit," and two selections, "City Beautiful" by Federlein and Bach's "O Sacred Heart" sung by the choir under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr.

In the evening at 7:30 p. m. the annual Reformation Rally will be held with Dr. Arthur H. Smith of Ashland as guest speaker.

District meetings for the week include: Fourth, Thursday at the parish house for a covered-dish dinner at noon; Fifth, Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the parish house.

Children of the church will meet at 6:30 p. m. and the Luther league will also convene at that time.

Communion Service At Baptist Church

Regular communion will be observed at the Park Avenue Baptist church when Rev. Albert L. Linder preaches on the sermon topic, "The Lamp of Prayer" for the 10:30 a. m. service. Mrs. Edith Fletcher Jameson will direct the choir in presenting two anthems.

Organ music to be played by Robert Wervey include the prelude, "Grave and Adagio" by Mendelssohn and Reger's "Benedictus" for the postlude.

10,000 Witness Halloween Festivities In Down Town

The American Legion drum corps also won a prize of $20 for being the largest organization to appear in the parade.

A half-hour serenade by the drum corps at Hunt's news stand in tribute to the man who made "Help Hunt Halloween," a traditional slogan in Mansfield was a highlight of the affair while the sale of war savings bonds and stamps was handled throughout the evening in downtown booths and theaters by Legionnaires, gave the celebration a patriotic note.

McVey post of the American Legion cooperated with Mrs. Hunt in arranging the affair and opened the ballroom of the Legion home for dancing after festivities were concluded downtown.

All but $30 of the $150 prize money was awarded and this amount was unclaimed since it was offered for the best bands in the celebration and not a single band was entered.

The ludicrous costume of a "wash woman" advertising "curb service" won a $10 prize for Mrs. B. E. Knapp, 11 Bedford street, for the most unique costume, while an awesome looking dragon's guise, replete with illuminated eyes, brought a Shelby resident, Art Reis, a $10 prize for the most unique man's costume.

Mrs. M. P. Gabor and her young son, Terry, 666 Gilbert avenue, captured $15 in prizes in the best-dressed classification. Mrs. Gabor won $10 for her appearance as May West and Terry won $5 for his snappy drum major uniform. Robert McCulloch, 195 Buckingham avenue, won $10 for an Uncle Sam outfit.

Other prizes went to the following: Sherry Fike, 3 France street, $5, for a Donald Duck outfit as the most comic girl; Paul Strater, 116 West First street, $5, most comic boy; Joan Di Sanze, 629½ Springmill street, $5, best dressed girl; Mrs. Garland Bennett, Mansfield, R. D. 4, $10, most unique lady's costume; Harry Wright, 163 Penn avenue, $10, most comic man.

Delivers Fourth In Sermon Series

At the First Christian church Sunday morning Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger will preach the fourth in a series of sermons on the "Church," entitled "The Living Church—Its Program of Evangelism."

Mrs. H. H. Clingan, organist, will play "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" by Bach, "Cradle Song" by Macfarlane and "Harvest March" by Blair and the choir will sing "Break Forth Into Joy" by Simper.

Monthly meeting of the official board will be Sunday at 2:30 p. m. and the discussion group will meet at 6:30 to continue the study of "Achieving the Christian Home Today." The young people will meet at 7 p. m. for a round table discussion with Betty Pfleiderer and Merle McCullough, jr, as leaders.

Women's Missionary society will meet Tuesday at 6:30 p. m. for a covered dish dinner and the annual "guest night" meeting. Mrs. Frank Brannon will give the devotionals. Mrs. Clara Calver and her division has charge of the program.

The J. D. Wilcox class meet at the church Wednesday for a covered dish dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Fellowship Forum Meetings Changed

The Fellowship Forum of the United Presbyterian church is now changed from Tuesday to Thursday at 7:30 p. m. Topic for next week is "The Fruits of Obedience and Faith." Theme of the sermon by Rev. J. Campbell White on Sunday at 10:30 a. m. will be "God Speaks to Us In Christ."

Oppose Civilian Manpower Draft

OPPOSITION to compulsory mobilization of civilian manpower, as voiced by William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and Philip Murray, president of the CIO, must be taken to mean that these men, and members of the unions they represent, believe that the war can be as quickly won by voluntary distribution of workers as would be possible under compulsion, or "regimentation," as Mr. Green puts it.

Based on the premise that winning the war in the quickest possible time, with the least possible sacrificing of lives and expenditure of money and property, is the primary objective, it may be assumed that Mr. Green and Mr. Murray believe that they have a better way to solve problems of industrial and agricultural production of war materials and food supplies than compulsory allocation of manpower.

It now appears that, after these representations, President Roosevelt has agreed to delay decision pending further study, which is said to involve a survey designed to determine how many idle men and women could become war workers.

"Compulsion" is an unpleasant word at any time, and one which is resented by all Americans as being an infringement on "personal liberty," but in recent months there has been an increase in realization that war brings strange new obligations which sometimes require sacrifice of "rights" and privileges that had become a part of peacetime living.

It was put forward by many, in advance of United States entry into the war, that a sufficient army could be built up by voluntary enlistments, and that the draft was encroachment on "personal liberty," but selective service was decided upon as the only way in which military requirements could be fairly and quickly met.

It is much the same in the fields of industrial and agricultural production, which are as essential to victory as the nation's fighting forces. If it is practicable to attain and carry through an all-out war effort without governmental supervision, or direction of labor into channels where it is most needed, that will be fine—and much preferable to compulsion.

But if it is found, after further study, that the voluntary plan isn't producing the desired results—then there will be no course except government control of civilian manpower, which is as justifiable in wartime as is compulsory military service.

Don't Neglect the Small Ballot

WHEN they go to the polls next Tuesday voters will be handed three ballots, one of which will be quite small.

This small ballot presents the proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the so-called "six-week term" for judges, and the idea is so generally favored by those who understand it that there is little likelihood of defeat, except through possible failure of voters to mark this ballot.

Under the present arrangement a judicial vacancy is filled by appointment that extends only until the next election, which results in the expense and confusion of having "short term" candidates of questionable qualifications, with the winner drawing salary for six or seven weeks without performing any real service on the bench.

The proposed amendment provides that if the unexpired term ends within one year after the next election, the governor's appointment shall be for the entire unexpired period.

The amendment is intended to simplify a complicated and expensive procedure, is not a political issue, and should be approved.

Another Gypsy 'King' Departs

WORD comes from Meridian, Miss., of the death of "the king of the gypsies," 85-year-old Emil Mitchell. Every so often a story like this appears, reminding the world that there is no shortage of gypsy kings. Every town harboring a settlement of these wanderers possesses a king, usually self-appointed, and accepted only by those families of his race whom he can help.

Ability to get them on relief is one quality that the gypsies value in their king. They also turn to him for help when in minor difficulties with the police. Thus the gypsy king is somewhat like the ward captain of a political machine.

In these respects the gypsies have fallen in with the custom of the country. In most others they are willing to remain a race apart. It is this failure to assimilate that makes them interesting to Americans.

To most people their origin and racial relationships are obscure. To students of the tribe, however, they are no mystery. It is now generally agreed that the gypsies came originally from North India, expelled about the 14th century. Their language is related to Sanskrit, the oldest language of the Aryan world. They have become wanderers over the face of the earth, carrying with them their skill with tools, their lightfingeredness and their haunting music. Probably they also gave Europe playing cards. Both cards and gypsies appeared in the west about the same time, and everyone knows the gypsy practice of telling fortunes by cards.

Less Big League Baseball Travel

AS NOW planned, the big league ball teams next year will make three intersectional trips instead of four, staying longer in each city. This is said to save 20,000 miles, quite an item nowadays, and is all very well. But it suggests two questions:

1. Why did they not do it this year?
2. Why not make two trips instead of three?

Baseball magnates will be lucky if the organized game exists at all next year. It might be a good idea to meet the government half way, and not merely one fourth.

With all the talk of coffee substitutes—wheat, oats, barley, and the like—it sounds very much like a cereal story.

The "Chinaman's chance" seems much better nowadays.

REAL REASON FOR THE COFFEE SHORTAGE

Plans to End Capital's 'Confusion'

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — In the midst of rapidly-changing conditions, new problems naturally arise constantly in Washington, as the seat of our whole emergency activity.

Every time a fresh one presents itself, an additional commission, board, administration, office or other executive agency is created to specialize on that particular puzzle.

The capital's so full of 'em that they're difficult, even for experts, to keep track of.

As a plain case of confusion, it would be bad enough. It's worse than that, though. These set-ups overlap numerously. They disagree and conflict with each other. There are jealousies between 'em, —jealousies over rival claims to authority and jealousies over questions of taxation allowances to support their various pet projects.

Congress is considerably resentful also. Capitol Hill's complaint is that it's been legislatively almost completely nullified by the wartime brood of executive groups. It's a danger to American democracy's future, according to the critical lawmakers, and what's more, they charge, it's bad for our present war effort, in that it's resulting in a muddle inconsistent with our maximum efficiency.

Finally, dishing out money to a multiplicity of different agencies, which ought to be merged, is represented as calculated to be unnecessarily expensive, in a campaign that'll be nearly ruinous, anyway.

Tolan's Plan.

Representative John H. Tolan is chairman of a committee that's been investigating the matter for some time and today calls for a halt upon the establishment of still more commissions until a "master organization's" been established to co-ordinate the recommendations of the subdivisions.

Representative Everett M. Dirksen has, indeed, actually pending in the lower congressional chamber, a resolution for a "legislative research service," as a liaison body between a lawmakers' joint committee of senators and representatives and the large family of executive set-ups.

Specifically Representative Dirksen's plan is more of a jab at the government's executive branch than Representative Tolan's suggestion.

The Tolan scheme is for a master organization, to be sure, but that, so far as the proposal's concerned, can be as much executively sponsored as the lesser ones, only it'll assemble all their separate conclusions under a single classification.

Representative Dirksen wants a purely legislative committee of 22 members, chosen in partnership by Capitol Hill's two houses. Besides their lawmakers' duties, Dirksen agrees that this outfit won't find much time to weigh, personally, all the advice given to 'em from executive quarters, but their "legislative research service" will consist of experts of their own selection—employed to filter executive requirements through from their agencies' sources to the intermediate "service's" congressional bosses.

In short, says the resolution's author, "To fulfill its duties to the people, congress should be, at all times, a co-ordinated equal of the executive branch, and this," he adds, "has been far from the case in recent years."

Further Complications.

As might be expected, administration spokesmen aren't enthusiastic over the notion of limiting its powers. They do, in fact, admit a deal of congestion of emergency agency personnel in Washington, but their version is that the administration itself is straightening matters out as fast as possible, whereas, they believe it would become perfectly hopeless with congress further complicating it.

Listen World!

War Marriage

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THEY "had an agreement." They were "crazy about each other, of course." Couldn't get their marriage license soon enough. But they were moderns. Live wires. So nix on the old corny rules. You had to live, even if you were married, didn't you? Live regular, have yourself a time, even if your partner was away.

So they made the "agreement." Between kisses, they vowed that nothing would cramp their style. Sure, they loved each other. But that didn't mean they had to go into solitary when the other fellow was away, did it? No—they'd keep on playing around, having dates, stepping out whenever they pleased. And there weren't to be any grouches or gripes about it, either. This was 1942, with a world at war. You had to grab your fun when and where you could get it. So none of the old ball-'n'-chain stuff for them.

Yes, they had an "agreement" . . . the lad who belonged to the Merchant Marine and his red-headed girl. And, for a while, it worked fine. There were wild, whoopee nights when he was ashore. And also when he wasn't. You couldn't be a dope and sit and chew your nails just because your man had checked out, could you? Specially not if a good looking Play Boy was waiting for you in a taxi . . . or a trick Blond had wired that she'd meet you at the dock. Heck, marriage wasn't a life sentence! Not unless you were a nitwit.

Well, they weren't nitwits. They took whatever came — and that was plenty. Laughed and kissed and thought they were beating the game. Until one night.

Until one night when he came back before he was expected. And, rushing into their cheap hotel room, she grabbed an evening dress, reached for the telephone. Well, what was wrong with that? It had been part of the agreement, hadn't it? And she couldn't break a date with a Swell Boy Friend just because the Merchant Marine didn't click with the calendar.

Yes, it was part of the agreement. But, for once, he didn't care for these new-fangled agreements. He was tired. He was blue. Maybe he was a little frightened, remembering some of the things he'd seen. And for the first time, he wanted his woman, all to himself. Away from the noise and the boy friends and the whoopee.

So he stood in front of the phone when she tried to grab. He'd thought she would kiss him but she didn't. Just stood there, instead, glaring at him, breathing fast, with the red splotches mottling her neck. Then they began—the words. Hot, ugly words that cut deeper than any lash. Twisted, angry mouths spitting out words like venom. Telling each other off.

Until suddenly something coughed, blazed, and everything was still. Exploding with stillness. And she stood shaking, slobbering with the smoking gun in her hands . . . and a mangled man twitching into death at her feet.

They'd "had an agreement," but somehow it hadn't worked out.

This is a true story. It doesn't matter where it was, for it is happening in every city and village in these United States. It doesn't always end with a gun or a man on a morgue slab. But it does end in hate and horror and broken dreams that will leave their scars forever.

And all because we think "war marriages are so romantic." All because we thought that inflamed senses and berserk desires could make a solid foundation for a lasting union.

We, the supposedly wise and mature elders of society, are as much to blame as these bewildered outlaw children. We, too, have rebelled against the burden of decency and discipline. We have refused to grow old and bear the responsibilities we assumed. We wanted to have our cake and eat it, too. And our children have been the victims of our own ruthlessness.

WE'VE MADE OUR SILLY AND SORDID "AGREEMENTS" WITH LIFE. I WONDER WHO'LL PAY THE BILL!

Congressmen Pause for Election, OPA Prepares for More Rationing

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CONGRESS worked itself into a terrific lather over the 18-19 year draft bill to pound the measure into shape patriotically before elections. And then it discovered that the senate had tied so many strings to the bill that it couldn't be straightened out until after election.

The house slapped the draft age reduction bill through in great shape; in the senate it ran into the prohibition amendment which was sidetracked until after election; and amendment prohibiting shipment of the young soldiers to overseas combat service until they've had 12 months of training; and a rider deferring men of all ages engaged in agriculture or essential war industries until satisfactory replacements can be obtained.

By the time the senate had done all this, the house had dispersed under a gentleman's agreement not to act on anything important or controversial until after next Tuesday's elections.

At the same time the capital became acutely conscious of the manpower situation. Senator Reynolds (D., S. C.) suggested the work week be standardized at 57 hours, eliminating premium pay for overtime.

Draft Director Hershey recommended that agriculture decide what it can and must grow next year and do without the rest; abolition of voluntary recruiting and more curbs on non-essential industries as methods of combatting the manpower shortage.

At Home

Battle of Ballots.

With their sons and husbands fighting battles of greater significance, American voters showed a minimum of interest in the sound and synthetic fury of the political battles. The candidates spoke but to smaller audiences; called names but with less enthusiasm; tried to drum up new issues.

But generally, voters showed more interest in fighting and watching the war than to the election of 435 representatives in congress who will constitute the new house and help run the war for the next two years. To the election of 34 senators who will, if the war ends within the next two years, help approve the peace treaty. To the selection of 33 governors, virtually all of whom are already pledged to do their "utmost" to win the war.

Traveler Returns.

Wendell Willkie came back to the United States as determined in his convictions as when, in far-away Moscow, he demanded a second-front for Russia and ventured that some of the United Nations' military men might need some "public prodding."

He came back proud of the esteem in which the United States is held by its allies, but worried over the "holes that are being punched in our reservoir of good will." We owe our Allies, he said, "more than boasts and broken promises."

Irked, too, was Willkie over the idea that persons not connected with the military should not make suggestions about how to win the war. The record thus far, he observed, has not been such as to inspire "any sublime faith in the infallibility of our military and naval experts."

Goodbye, Raise.

It was a simple flourish of the pen, but during the week President Roosevelt and his economic director, James F. Byrnes, wrote into the wartime code the final barrier against inflation.

The order froze all salaries and wages at their existing levels, and established a salary top of $25,000 a year, after the deduction of taxes and other allowances. Treasury experts pointed out that to make the $25,000 net, an individual's income would have to be at least $67,000.

The order froze incomes under $5,000 at once, and it was retroactive to Oct. 3 on those over $5,000. It left employers free, however, to grant increases in cases of promotions or reclassifications, or within established salary ranges.

More Rationing.

During the week there were indications that the government was about to put a kink in the horn of plenty that would give all America a real taste of wartime rationing shortly after the first of the year.

First big news along the rationing front was the disclosure by OPA that War Ration Book 2 would be off the presses in January, and that the books would be capable of handling "any rationing program that arises."

Second big news—and a relief to millions who had been getting their morning cup irregularly, if at all—was the decision to ration coffee, beginning Nov. 28. OPA said the ration would be a pound for each adult each five weeks—a little better than a cup a day. That was tough news for the six-cups-a-day addicts, but at least they can space their consumption to their own liking.

Santa Torpedoed.

It started like a tough year for Santa Claus.

The army postal service, after urging home folks to send their overseas Christmas mail early, announced that a cargo ship bearing almost 5,000 bags of mail—mostly parcel post bound for soldiers in the British Isles—had been lost in the Atlantic due to enemy action.

The army said most of the mail had been deposited in the United States late in September, urged persons mailing packages at that time to be "guided accordingly."

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Notes on the giddy whirl:

1:30 p. m.—Lunch at the Savoy-Plaza with Janet Blair, blonde youngster who graduated from singing with dance band (the late Hal Kemp's) to the fillums, eventually to land coveted role of Eileen in screen version of "My Sister Eileen."

She turns out to be nice kid, without affectations. They say film stars become affected by believing their own publicity, but there is some hope for Janet because she swears every word in her biography is true to begin with.

Wears a huge, floppy green hat secured to her head with green net. Doesn't like it, but studio gave it to her to wear, and besides, it saves her from fussing with her hair. Drifts easily into shop talk about newspapermen, films and band leaders. Known back in Altoona, Pa., as Martha Janet Lafferty.

* * *

4:30 p. m.—Cocktails at the Waldorf-Astoria with Edgar Bergen, only the cocktails are few because Bergen has a bad cold. Makes a bad joke, too, to say that a Bergen cold is twice as serious as an ordinary cold because Charley McCarthy finds it contagious.

Like Miss Blair, it's no coincidence that Bergen's visit coincides with the opening of his latest film, "Here We Go Again," but added facts are that he's pretty much used up after a difficult tour of Army bases in Alaska. Won't cancel any camp engagements, however, and feels he has found his niche in this war.

Hasn't much use for citizens who have to be kissed by movie stars before they'll buy a war bond.

* * *

8:40 p. m.—Review of "The Eve of St. Mark," latest play off the typewriter of Maxwell Anderson. Find it's a good war play, if you like war plays, well up to standard set by Messrs. Anderson, S. N. Behrman, R. E. Sherwood and Elmer Rice, the "dramatists of freedom" of the Playrights' Company. Particularly swell jobs by William Prince, Aline MacMahon and Eddie O'Shea.

* * *

11:30 p. m.—Into the Cafe Rouge of the Hotel Pennsylvania, to give Bob Allen's newish band listen. Up and down Broadway they're calling Bob lucky because when Glenn Miller went into the Army the Pennsylvania was without a band and Allen, who had been at Roseland, got the spot. Seems to be plenty good enough to stay in the stratosphere, however. Bob was encouraged by Ben Bernie to quit jerking soda in Cincinnati and try out in Chicago as band vocalist. Sang for Hal Kemp for eight years until Hal's death and then signed to direct this new band.

2:00 a. m.—Memo: Don't forget to turn in expense account.

Senator Reynolds of the Military Affairs committee points to the need of a definite manpower policy: "If we are going to have an army of 7,500,000 and still be the arsenal of democracy, we have to stop all non-essential civilian activity and marshal our manpower resources."

Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, again warns not to underestimate the Japanese: "They are fighting for a cause which is bad, but it is the only cause they know. The Japanese do not bend. They fight until they cannot fight any longer."

Return Visit.

Hongkong, sitting in the China sea like a helpless duck on a pond, was a pushover for the Japanese juggernaut in the early phase of the war. The glamorous British crown colony, hammered by dive bombers, fell on Christmas day, 1941.

Exactly 10 months later the United States sent an anniversary present—waves of medium bombers and fighters that turned the great Kowloon dock area into flames, spread destruction among waterfront warehouses and other buildings.

The raid cost the attackers one bomber, cost the Jap defenders between 10 and 15 fighters. Even as a hit-and-run affair, it brought cheer to the Chinese, gave them new hope that from advanced bases, the U. S. was preparing to deal new punishment to China's No. 1 enemy.

Stalingrad Lessons.

If imitation is a sincere form of flattery, the Germans have started to pay their Russian foe a high compliment.

London sources reported last week that the two-month old defense of Stalingrad had sent the Germans scurrying to duplicate the city's defenses in Nazi-land, by the erection of pillboxes and strong points similar to those the Germans spent weeks trying to crack. The construction, said London, is causing a wholesale change in defense theories in German-held cities that might be invasion targets.

Vichy Crisis.

While the fighting in North Africa gained new momentum, unhappy France waited for events affecting its own territory in the dark continent, as well as at home.

On the heels of a flying visit of Vichy Admiral Jean Darlan to Dakar and Morocco, the British Broadcasting company declared that Adolf Hitler had delivered an ultimatum to Pierre Laval, demanding the surrender of all merchant ships, French or foreign, now in French harbors. If true, observers believed, this might be the prelude to a formal demand for the French fleet.

At home, Laval was said to have received another extension of time in the German demand for 150,000 French workers for German factories, after French underground organizations threatened a general walkout.

Bad News on Navy Day.

In the ten-weeks' battle of the Solomon Islands, 14 American ships had been sent to the bottom. The powerful Japanese fleet edged closer to the strategic island of Guadalcanal, threatening marines and army men grimly holding the jungle vantage point.

Almost coincident with Navy day came one of the most disheartening announcements of the war—the loss of the 14,000-ton, two year old aircraft carrier

COURT ORDERS NEW TRIAL FOR ASHLAND WOMAN

Judge Ahl Finds Jurors Had Discussed Case of Mrs. Buzzard, Charged With Perjury.

ASHLAND—A second trial for Mrs. Kathryn Boeh Buzzard on a charge of perjury has been ordered for Nov. 5 in Ashland common pleas court. Motion for new trial filed by Mrs. Buzzard's attorneys after her conviction by a jury on Oct. 16, was sustained by Judge Clarence Ahl of Bucyrus, assigned to the Ashland county court to hear the case, yesterday afternoon.

The new trial was granted by Judge Ahl on grounds that Mrs. Buzzard had not received a fair trial and that the local practice of permitting prospective jurors to come into the court room would make it most likely for the prospective jurors to hear talk about the case.

Charges had been made by Mrs. Charlotte Brubaker and Mrs. Gertrude Garrish, both of Lucas, that they had heard two of the jurors, Guy M. Smith and F. W. Smith, discuss the case as they sat in the court room before being called to the jury box.

For the new trial Judge Ahl has ordered a new venire of 30 jurors to be drawn, with no one excused from reporting. The jurors will be taken to the jury room as soon as they report and must remain there until they are called to the box.

Mrs. Buzzard was indicted for perjury on grounds of testimony given in a divorce hearing and on which she was granted a divorce from George Boeh last Aug. 28.

CAST LIGHT ABSENT VOTE

Only 125 Ballots Received In Crawford County, 40 From Servicemen.

BUCYRUS—Deadline for receiving absent voters ballots Friday found less than 125 applications returned, L. T. Kinnett, clerk of the board of elections, announced. The total was less than half the number received in the 1940 election.

Still outstanding are soldiers ballots which are acceptable until 6:30 Tuesday night.

Of the 125 applications for absent voters ballots, less than 40 were from service men, Kinnett said.

SALE OF BONDS DOUBLES QUOTA

Campaign Expected to Boost Total to $110,000 At Galion.

GALION—With the goal set at $50,000, Galion's War bond drive in connection with the annual Mardi Gras, Friday, is expected to reach $110,000 when all figures are totaled.

The drive for the sale of bonds started Friday morning, and during the day purchasers were given free rides in an army "Jeep." By noon the quota had been exceeded and had reached $71,106.25. Before the auction of bonds which closed last evening's Mardi Gras, the total was $103,000. Results of the auction were $3,838 in bonds which were sold from $50 to $1,050. The chief auctioneer was Vance Hoover of Leesville, assisted by Bill Grebe, L. P. Auck, J. E. Campbell and Curtis W. Tracht.

Prizes were war stamps for the masqueraders in both Mardi Gras parades, the childrens' in the afternoon, and the adults' in the evening.

There were about 75 adults for the evening parade, while about 500 children were entered in the afternoon.

The Galion high school band, American Legion Drum corps, and local motorcyclists, led the parade.

Judges, Lieut. S. P. Davis of Fort Millard, Bucyrus, L. F. Waldbauer of Crestline and Norman Schnelker of Galion, selected the following winners in the adult parade:

Best dressed lady, Mrs. Carl S. Holland of route 2, Galion; second best dressed lady, Mrs. Carl Raney, Galion; best dressed couple, Leatha Shaffer of First avenue, and Dorcas Case of route 2; most comically dressed lady, Helen Newland of East Walnut street; second most comically dressed lady, Mrs. John Poth, most comically dressed man, Mrs. Burrell Iams, Galion; second most comical, Miss Dixie Lacey of Crestline; most comical group, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Tracht, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Young, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Manning of Galion; second most comical group, Mary Seemann, Betty Cox, Elsie Eckelberry, Cecil Arnold and Helen Helfrich, all of Galion; best patriotic group, Noreen Boyle, Barbara McMahon, Grace Keckstein, Florence Murphy and Audrey Gabriel, all of Bucyrus.

RETURN BODY TO MILLERSBURG

MILLERSBURG — Funeral services for Mrs. Calvin Shoup, 88, former Millersburg resident who died at the home of her son, Edward Shoup in Long Beach, Calif., will be held at the Hunter funeral home at 2 p. m. Tuesday. Rev. D. M. Hayes will be in charge and burial will be in the Oak Hill cemetery. The body was accompanied east by the son Edward's wife.

Mrs. Shoup was the widow of a prominent Millersburg business man for years but went to California in the fall of 1940 following the death of her husband. Besides the son, there survives three grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

RITES SUNDAY

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Miller, 26, of Mechanic township who died en route to Pomerene Memorial hospital at 6 p. m. Thursday, will be held at the home at 9 a. m. Sunday. Burial will be in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Miller was born in Holmes county April 17, 1916, daughter of Gideon and the late Fannie Troyer. Surviving are the husband, Albert; two sons, Moses and John of the home; her father; a stepmother; three brothers and three sisters.

MANSFIELD BUSINESS IN REVIEW

WAR HOUSING CONSTRUCTION STEPPING UP

25,100 Dwellings Started For Defense Workers Over Two-Month Period.

WASHINGTON—Since Sept 1 war housing construction started by private builders operating under the Federal Housing administration, war housing insurance program has averaged approximately 3,100 dwelling units per week, Abner H. Ferguson, federal housing commissioner, announced today.

In the eight weeks ended Oct. 24, construcuon of 25,100 dwelling units for war workers was started under FHA inspection, Ferguson reported. This represented an expansion of approximately 12 per cent over the average rate of building started under the FHA war housing program during July and August.

"This steady rate of production of private war housing, to be financed by FHA-insured mortgages, is indicative of the intensive efforts by the private building industry and by private lending institutions to adjust normal peacetime operations to the needs and requirements of housing for war workers," the commissioner declared.

Those adjustments have entailed numerous changes from normal peacetime practices, he pointed out. Because of the urgent necessity for conserving critical war material, war housing must be designed and located so as to consume minimum amounts of such material. Furthermore, only those projects for which there is clearly an imperative need in the interest of the war effort may be undertaken. Locations must be accessible to the war plants served and occupancy priority must be given to war workers. Rentals and sales prices must be in line with the incomes of the war worker occupants, and a high percentage of the projects must be offered for rent rather than for sale.

The 25,100 dwelling units started in the eight weeks ended Oct. 24 represented a decline of approximately 33 per cent from the total volume of construction started under the FHA program in the corresponding period of last year, when most of these requirements were not yet in effect.

In 1941, about 15 per cent of the units financed under the FHA program were located outside the critical war areas to which operations are now confined, and about 21 per cent was valued above the maximum price limitation now in force for privately financed war housing. In July and August, war housing units started under the FHA program were off 52 per cent from the total number started in the like months of 1941.

During the eight weeks ended October 24, applications were received for FHA mortgage insurance on 29,700 proposed new dwelling units for war workers.

Home-Makers for 4 War Plant Workers Take OPS Meal Study

Continue Food Study at Nov. 20 Meeting of Big Group

Greeted with success at their first "health for victory" demonstration yesterday for home-makers of employes at four Mansfield war plants, officials of the Ohio Public Service company announce that the second of their monthly school sessions will be held Nov. 20, from 2 to 3:30 p. m. in the Westinghouse auditorium.

Home-makers for workers at the Ideal Electric Manufacturing company, the Gorman-Rupp company, the Barnes Manufacturing company and the Hughes-Keenan company attended yesterday's introductory class and it is expected many more will participate in forthcoming lectures and cooking demonstrations.

Mrs. Irene Oberlin of the Home Service department and Myron D. Miller, of the OPS official family are in charge of the cookery program. Each person—wife, sister, mother or other individual who prepares food at home and for lunch boxes of war workers in these industries—is furnished with a monthly meal guide which suggests nutritional combinations of value to the partaker thereof.

The importance of balanced meals, how to select and prepare foods to be assured of sufficient vitamins and simple cooking methods to prevent vitamin destruction are included in the demonstrations.

According to Mrs. Oberlin, statistics show that despite the fact that the United States has a greater abundance of food than any other nation, our people by no means compare in health to those of some of the less fortunate nations. Many youths called for service in the armed forces were rejected for physical deficiencies resulting from improper nutritional care.

"Industrial plant workers are industrial soldiers," Miller declares. "There must be 17 serving long hours on the assembly lines to supply one battle-front soldier. That our industrial troops are in need of some of the same food considerations as our fighting soldiers is proved by industrial surveys. The challenge is to the women who prepare the meals. If the nation's war effort is to be a success, women must rally to the cause of proper food for their men."

New--Alteration Building Increase Noted Over Ohio

In spite of declines in residential building and heavy engineering construction, the total of all new and alteration building in northern and eastern Ohio during September was slightly above the corresponding 1941 total, according to a statement issued today by Marc Wayne, district manager of Dodge reports, the daily construction news service.

This increase, Wayne explained, was chiefly due to the fact that non-residential building, which includes barracks and housing for war workers, jumped from $7,821,000 last year to $25,034,000 this year. Pointing out that his figures were based not on building permits issued but on the valuation of actual contracts, awarded, as reported by the Dodge field staff in this area. Wayne said that the September figure brings this year's cumulative total for non-residential building to $147,501,000, which is more than double the corresponding 1941 total.

In the field of residential building, now severely restricted by war priorities, sharp declines from last year's totals were recorded, and heavy engineering construction—public works and utilities—also fell behind last year's total.

HIRES TEACHER

MILLERSBURG—At a special meeting of Clark Consolidated board of education, Mrs. Ruth Minich of Killbuck, who had two years training at Muskingum college, New Concord and taught one year at Shannon rural school, was hired to replace Mrs. Ruth Mariner, who resigned as teacher of first and second grades. Mrs. Mariner will leave soon to join her husband, McCoy Mariner, who is in the U. S service in Georgia.

HEAR M'SWEENEY

MILLERSBURG — John McSweeney, Democratic nominee for governor, will make a public appearance in Millersburg Monday, local Democratic leaders said. He is expected to speak briefly from the steps of the court house at the north side.

PAPER ON LIFE, SONGS OF FOSTER PRESENTED

Mrs. Boyd Wierman Gives Talk for Art Study Club; Songs Rendered By Mrs. Anglin, Accompanied By Mrs. Cairns.

ATTIRED in evening gowns, Mrs. Boyd Wierman, Mrs. Mary Troll Anglin and Mrs. George Cairns presented an entertaining program for the Art Study club at the Women's Club last evening. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Richard Fensch, Mrs. Frank Leavitt and Mrs. Joseph Tomlin. Mrs. I. D. Wallington was a guest.

Preceding the program, a dessert-luncheon was served by Mrs. David Talbot and Mrs. Wallington from a table attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and lighted tapers. There were bouquets of chrysanthemums from Mrs. Leavitt's garden throughout the club house.

"The Life of Stephen Collins Foster, America's Troubadour," was the subject of the interesting paper given by Mrs. Wierman. At intervals during Mrs. Wierman's talk, Mrs. Anglin sang compositions by Foster. Her piano accompaniment was furnished by Mrs. Cairns.

The numbers presented were the following: "Tioga Waltz," Foster's first composition, written when he was 14 years old, played by Mrs. Cairns; "Open Thy Lattice, Love," first song to be published, composed at the age of 16, published when Foster was 18, sung by Mrs. Anglin; "Oh, Susanna," the song for the California "Gold Rush" in 1849, sung by Mrs. Anglin with club members joining in the chorus.

The selections continued: "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair," written especially for Jane McDowell, a renowned beauty who later became Foster's wife; "Old Black Joe," written in memory of an old negro servant; "My Old Kentucky Home," written after honeymoon trip to New Orleans with Jane, sung by Mrs. Anglin with members joining in the chorus; "Under the Willow She's Sleeping," composed after Foster found their little daughter, Marian, who had been missing for several hours, sleeping under a willow tree.

The two final numbers on the program were "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," written in memory of his mother, whom he adored; and "Beautiful Dreamer," Foster's last composition.

The next meeting will be held on Nov. 13 with Mrs. M. M. Collins as hostess.

HERE AND THERE

HOME for a short leave is Lieut. Eugene H. Almy, who received the commission and gold bars of second lieutenant when he was graduated Thursday from the officer candidate school of the anti-aircraft division of the coast artillery at Camp Davis, N. C. He will leave Nov. 8 for Fort Bliss, Tex. Before entering officers' training school, Lieut. Almy was stationed at Camp Wallace, Tex.

* * *

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walls, Park avenue west road, are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Odgers of Philadelphia, Pa. . . . Miss Ina Weatherbee of Lincoln Heights and Miss Betty Kloos of Ashland are attending the meetings of the Northeastern Ohio Teachers association in Cleveland.

* * *

CPL. EUGENE V. FRITZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Fritz, 416 Wayne street, is home on a 15-day furlough from Fort Bragg, N. C. His marriage to Miss Frances H. Beamer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl F. Beamer, Mifflin road, will take place at 2 p. m. Sunday. Rev. E. G. Corwin will perform the ceremony in an open church service at the First Methodist church.

* * *

Another soldier who will be married during his furlough here is Pfc. Charles Edward Caugherty, jr., who will wed Miss Evelyn Lucille Steele, daughter of Mrs. Bert Steele, of Plymouth, at the United Brethren church in Shelby. The couple will exchange vows at 6 p. m. Sunday. Open church will be observed. Pfc. Caugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Caugherty, is home on a seven-day furlough from Camp Perry.

* * *

MRS. N. M. WOLFE, 662 Park avenue west, is celebrating her 87th birthday anniversary today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. G. W. Kenson, in Hollywood, Calif. Mrs. Kenson is giving a party for Mrs. Wolfe at which three of the guests will be in their eighties. Mrs. Allen Bond and Norman Wolfe of this city are daughter and son of Mrs. Wolfe.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

My father's voice held a deflating note of lofty condescension as he said:

"Naturally I sent for Mr. Veritzen when I found his son and daughter-in-law here unconscious."

But Milner had now regained his effrontery, and his voice was suave and silky as he said, before my father opened the door:

"Perhaps Mr. Veritzen may not relish seeing his son and his son's wife in a drunken stupor."

"Permit me to give you a piece of advice, Milner," my father said. "You are in bad enough odor because of your criminal carelessness, and if you knew Philip Veritzen as we do, you would know it would end your career as manager of the Lansfield to even hint at anything so dastardly. There is no trace of alcohol on the breath of either of them. Your guess is wrong. We shall have to look for some other solution of this mystery."

Milner a Good Actor.

"Thank you for putting me right," said Milner. "For the moment, I honestly thought that must be the solution, but if they had no liquor—oh, this is terrible!" he burst out with a well-acted show of emotion.

"Glad you've thought better of it," my father said, then opened the door to Philip Veritzen.

The noted impresario at once saw Noel's recumbent figure on the couch, and he rushed toward him.

"Noel! Noel!" he called, and evoking no answer he looked wildly from one to another.

"What is it? What has happened?" he demanded. "And where is Mary?"

"Sit down" my father said imperatively and pushed a chair toward him.

Mr. Veritzen let Dicky put him into the seat, while my father spoke with imperative emphasis.

"Noel is in no danger," the physician says, he began, "and while he is not sure of the ultimate effect on Mary, there is no immediate peril for her. Now I will tell you what happened."

In concise words he told Noel's anxious father of our failure to get a response to our knocking, of going to the communicating suite where Adams was, then rushing into my balcony suite, where we had found Noel and Mary unconscious.

"Fortunately, Dr. Twitchell was still in the hotel, and we got him down here at once. He is with Mary now, but probably will come in here soon," he concluded, just as the doctor appeared in the doorway.

"Mrs. Graham," the doctor said "will you please sit beside Mrs. Veritzen until I return? I think she is all right, but if you note any change in her breathing or in her color, please call me at once."

I hurried out, but no one closed the door after me, so I was to miss nothing of the act Philip Veritzen was unconsciously staging, for he of course believed the condition of his son and daughter-in-law to be really serious, and showed extreme anxiety.

"But," Veritzen was demanding, "how could they be drugged' Did they have anything to eat or drink?"

"Just coffee and biscuits," my father said, pointing to the table. "Of course I am going to have the contents of the coffee pot and cups analyzed, to see if the coffee was drugged."

"But that would be impossible," Mr. Milner struck in with apparent excitement. "That coffee came from the hotel grill. In fact, I had some sent up myself tonight; you remember, Dr. Twitchell? It may have been about the same time. I'll just check on it, if I may."

My father gave an assenting nod.

"By all means, check on that," he said.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Colony Club Has Dinner-Dance At Westbrook

The big event of the year for the Colony club was the dinner-dance held last night at Westbrook Country Club. Following the turkey dinner which was served at long tables beautifully decorated with bouquets of autumn flowers, the couples enjoyed dancing to Nels Blocher and his orchestra.

During the evening, for a little variety they had some whistle dances, and Mrs. Hugh Ward sang some impromptu songs with the orchestra. There were about 42 couples present for this highly successful affair. The next meeting is to be a dessert-luncheon at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 1:30 on Nov. 12. There will be a review of the book, "I Married a Greek," by Mrs. Logas and it will be on sale and copies autographed at this time.

Hostesses for the dinner-dance last evening were Mrs. Virgil Routzahn, Mrs. G. W. Walker, Mrs. P. A. Rossborough and Mrs. Donald Lathrop. Those in charge of the Nov. 12 meeting will be Mrs. J. B. Forthier, Mrs. James Irwin and Mrs. M. N. Brooks.

Gift Presented To Mrs. Ricks

As a farewell party for Mrs. Bessie Ricks, president, who is leaving for her new home in San Francisco, Calif., members of Delano Auxiliary had a covered-dish dinner in the hall at 6 o'clock Friday evening. The tables were decorated with red, white and blue candles and chrysanthemums. Mrs. Ricks was presented with a gift of luggage from the group.

After the dinner a business session was held with Mrs. Ricks presiding. Reports were given on the benefit card party, gifts for boys in the service, on civilian defense and on boxes sent to boys overseas. Two new members were initiated. The next regular meeting will be held on Nov. 10.

SURPRISED ON BIRTHDAY.

Twenty-one children in the first grade of West Fifth street school enjoyed a masquerade party yesterday afternoon when Mrs. Ernest Chronister surprised her little daughter Mary Ann, on her sixth birthday. Miss Irene Hutzelman, the first grade teacher assisted Mrs. Chronister. Games and contests were played and refreshments served. The room was gaily decorated with pumpkins and other Halloween appointments.

Married 50 Years Ago

To celebrate the golden wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor L. Lime, their daughters, Mrs. Ethel Hawley and Mrs. Vinton Childs are holding open house at the Childs' home, 568 Garfield place, Sunday afternoon. Friends will be received from 2 to 6 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Lime were married in the First Lutheran church on Nov. 1, 1892, and have always lived in or near Mansfield.

P.T.A. Council Holds Meeting

At the meeting of the Mansfield Council of Parents and Teachers which was held at John Simpson Junior high school Wednesday evening, Mrs. K. E. Buhr, president, gave a report on the state convention which was held recently in Akron. A report also was given by Mrs. Carl L. McCullough. Mrs. Charles Farry is Council program chairman and Mrs. Peter Halvax of Newman school had charge of the evening's program.

Mrs. Halvax presented Mrs. Secord, who spoke on "The Value of a Child's Health," and told of her work as a teacher of the junior first grade at Newman school. Mrs. Joseph Kocsovsky, jr., told about the Newman School Mothers' clubs work of furnishing lunches at the school. There will be a membership jamboree at the next meeting, which will take place on Nov. 18.

FELLOWSHIP CLASS

Mrs. Louis Christie, Buckingham avenue, entertained members of the Fellowship class of the Evangelical Congregational church with a masquerade party Thursday evening. The short business session was led by Mrs. Christie. Members responded to roll call with scripture verses. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 19. The place will be announced later.

Tri Gamma Party Thursday Night

A Halloween party was held by Gamma chapter of Tri Gamma sorority Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Jack McKnight on Poplar street. Mrs. Leonard Seger and Miss Mary Garver were associate hostesses.

Prizes in contests and games were won by Mrs. Joseph Kemp, Mrs. Hedges Princehorn, Mrs. Eugene Almy and Mrs. Harry Frietchen. Decorations were in orange and black. Luncheon was served at the close of the evening. The next meeting will be held on Nov. 5 at the home of Miss Garver.

Is Honored With Kitchen Shower

Miss Marjory Birmelin was honored with a kitchen shower Thursday night when her mother, Mrs. George Birmelin and her sister, Mrs. George Richards, entertained at the former's home on Harker street. Sixteen guests were present, one from out of town, Mrs. Artis Heichel of Canton.

At this time the date of Miss Birmelin's and Delmar Heichel's wedding was announced and is to be on Nov. 14. Following the bingo game a delicious buffet lunch was served by the hostesses.

HOROSCOPE

FOR SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1

SUNDAY'S horoscope shows particularly lively and eventful activities in all cultural, social, romantic and affectional affiliations, with young people and their affairs pushing all else of importance off the calendar. Any business that might be conducted to cater to such matters should thrive.

Those whose birthday it is may have a lively and prosperous year, with literary, artistic and social associations and ambitions giving much gratification as well as pleasure. The affairs of youth and their goals are progressive although there may be little approval from elders or superiors.

A child born on this day should have exceptional talent and versatility, especially in artistic, musical, intellectual or creative lines.

FOR MONDAY, NOVEMBER 2

MONDAY'S astrological augury is for a moderately successful day, with new ideas applied to old or static situations—stimulating and possibly exciting. Nevertheless this stimulus and excitement, impelled by emotional or mental impetuosity or excess energy, might defeat or frustrate some favorable opportunities.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively year with the creative energies and faculties under exciting stimuli. This might produce fine constructive expression in unusual lines, if impetuosity, excessive zeal or over-enthusiastic behavior doesn't provoke antagonism or opposition.

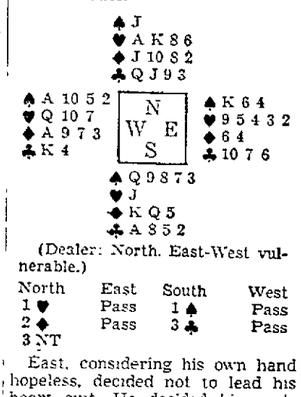
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

OFF ON THE RIGHT FOOT

If you don't get off on the right foot—which in military marching means the left foot—you are likely to be out of step all the way. That is as true of bridge play as it is of parades. Probably more contracts are decided by the play on the first two or three tricks—by both the defense and the offense—than by what occurs on all the rest of them put together. Then is the time that the two sides make their plans and determine the general line of action for the rest of the route.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
1 ♥	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 NT

East, considering his own hand hopeless, decided not to lead his heart suit. He decided his partner's preference was probably for spades, so led the 4 of that suit, the 7 going on from dummy. West decided to keep his A to knock off the Q, so put in the 10, which the J won—making game sure for the declarer. He promptly sent the club Q to the K and West switched to the heart Q, the A winning.

Three clubs were cashed and the diamond K lost to the A. West, hoping his partner had the heart K, led the 7, but North took it and completed his game with three diamonds.

A bit of clear thinking by West could have beaten that contract. Thus: East would not have led spades with only a doubleton; hence he had exactly three, as North would not have bid No Trumps probably with a blank. North's singleton was undoubtedly an honor, either the K or J. In either event, the 2 would have forced it.

Had West put his spade 2 on that trick, then when he got the lead later with the club K, he could have settled it right there by leading his spade 5 to the K. East would have returned the 6 toward the A-10, producing two more spade tricks, and the diamond A would have made the setting trick. In brief, if West had made a plan to take five tricks, he would have done so.

* * *

Your Week-End Lesson.

Any player knows that sometimes, when you have a good lead in your hand, such as a high honor sequence, or the bidding has indicated the best lead to be a trump, to impede a cross-ruff, you are justified in not opening your partner's suit. Under what other circumstances is it justifiable to open some different suit than his?

Garden Clubs Meet for Lunch At Westbrook

Westbrook Country club was the scene of a lovely luncheon given by the combined Garden clubs of Mansfield. The tables were most effectively decorated with miniature cornshocks, autumn leaves and tiny figurines of farm animals, carrying out attractively a rustic, fall theme. Throughout the club large vases of mums were used. At each place were little booklets containing different herb recipes compiled and tested by members of the Linnaeus Garden club.

Mrs. Louis Ott welcomed the group and announced the next Garden Center lecture. This is to be on Dec. 3 at the library, with Mrs. Louis Heller of Youngstown who will talk on "Christmas Decorations." She then introduced Mrs. Ephriam Brown who in turn told a little of the play "It Was a Lovely Meeting" which was later presented.

The cast of characters included Mrs. Henry Sanford, Mrs. S. C. Schiller, Mrs. Allen Tappan, Mrs. W. H. Walter, Mrs. C. M. Jelliff, Mrs. Wallace Campbell, Mrs. Ephriam Brown, Mrs. J. C. Gorman and Mrs. Harry Dobson. Co-chairman for this enjoyable affair at which 170 were present, were Mrs. G. J. Searle and Mrs. G. W. Stephens.

ASHLANDERS TO MARRY

ASHLAND—A marriage license has been issued here to John Thomas Rowe, Trojan Powder company, and Lilian Gibson, Faultless Rubber company, both of Ashland.

THEATERS

Rousing Film.

"Desperate Journey," Errol Flynn's new picture at the Ohio is the highly improbable but rousing story of five R. A. F. men who, shot down in Germany, face unbelieveable odds but manage, at least three of them do, to come out on top. They outsmart the Gestapo, raise havoc with the civilians and ultimately take over a captured Hudson bomber to fly back to England. Flynn as the leader of the lot is supported by Ronald Regan, Alan Hale, Arthur Kennedy and Ronald Sinclair. Raoul Walsh directed.

* * *

Hilarious Comedy.

The things that happen in "My Sister Eileen," Madison attraction opening today, were not "made-up." They actually did happen to the story's author, Ruth McKenney, former Columbus and Akron newspaper woman, when she went to New York with her real sister Eileen. The hilarious adventures of the McKenney Twain are now set forth in a howling film after attaining success in print and on Broadway. Rosilind Russell and Janet Blair appear as the sisters who learn about life in Greenwich Village from everybody from a theatrical reporter to a Cossack doorman. Brian Aherne and Allyn Joslyn are in the cast. The picture shows Sunday and again Tuesday and Wednesday, skipping Monday because of Charlie Barnet's engagement.

* * *

Jungle Thriller.

Jungle thrills are furnished in Dorothy Lamour's starring picture, "Beyond The Blue Horizon," by a mad elephant who wreaks disaster at every turn. Filmed in technicolor the picture concerns a jungle princess who leaves her animal friends to visit civilization and claim a fortune that rightfully belongs to her. She is forced to return to the jungle to prove her claim and a jungle-bred lion wrestler goes with her. Richard Denning, Walter Abel and Jack Haley are in the picture. "Foreign Agent," with John Shelton is the second attraction.

* * *

Campus Musical.

"Youth On Parade," a campus musical dealing with a psychology professor who believes he can regiment the jiving and woo-pitching of his young charges, opens Sunday at the Park. John Hubbard plays the professor who turns into a first-class Romeo before the students get through with him. Ruth Terry and Martha Driscoll are also in the cast. "The Mayor of 44th Street," with George Murphy and Freddy Martin's orchestra is the second attraction.

Tygers Romp Over Portsmouth High for 28-7 Victory

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The keen shooting eye of Pvt. Dale Arnold of Mansfield has won him the nickname of "Sgt. York" among his buddies at Fort Benjamin Harrison, Ind., according to the Fort Ben publicity department.

Arnold proved himself the finest shot in all Fort Ben when he qualified as a rifle expert the first time he shot for record on the range.

He should have known something about rifles. Before his induction in the army Arnold had served for 14 years as treasurer of the Ohio Rifle and Pistol association.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Arnold, 567 Cook road, and was formerly employed as store room clerk at Empire Sheet & Tin Plate company.

* * *

Another guy who is doing all right in the armed service is Bud Houghton, coach last year of Massillon high school, and now coach of a squadron football team at the navy's Iowa pre-flight school.

Bud's team got away to an inauspicious start, losing the first game and tying the second, but now it has won four straight games and is in second place in the Iowa squadron league.

Houghton saw the Ohio State-Northwestern game last Saturday, and says that while Tommy James pulled a boner when he failed to run with an intercepted pass for a sure touchdown, he also saved a touchdown when he made an almost impossible tackle through four blockers on a screen pass.

* * *

"He was the only man who had a chance at the Northwestern runner," Houghton declares.

* * *

Remember the column in this space a couple days ago about sportsmanship by the fans when their team is losing? About how Mansfield fans cheered their team as moral victors on a 32-0 defeat by Massillon, and how Massillon Coach Elwood Kammer hoped Massillon fans would feel the same way when the Tigers finally meet defeat?

Seems Lorain fans were too disappointed to feel that way when Lakewood ran over the Steelers 19-0 last week. Reported the Lorain Journal:

* * *

"The stands were full of downhearted Lorain people who, usually quite noisy, were content to sit and just watch. Even the Lorain high cheerleaders went on vacation, leaving the players to carry on in the face of defeat without a smack on the back, in the way of a cheer, to help them."

* * *

Here in Mansfield we can't lose for winning. Even getting a moral victory out of a 32-0 defeat.

That's something to be proud of, if it can be carried over into disappointing setbacks in less important games than the annual Massillon tilt.

Cross Country Race Called Off

Track Coach Harry Mehock of Mansfield high school learned just yesterday that the state finals for the cross country championship at Delaware today had been called off.

* * *

"Transportation difficulties" was given as the reason, but it wasn't explained why there should be more transportation difficulties in taking eight teams to Delaware than there were in taking four times that number to district meets last Saturday.

* * *

Mehock's harriers won the northwestern Ohio championship at Toledo last week, and had hopes of repeating in the state meet.

Classy Colts Run In Pimlico Race

BALTIMORE—(AP)—A compact field of four classy two-year-old colts, led by Occupation, was scheduled to face Starter Jim Milton in the 20th running of the rich Pimlico Futurity today, the last major purse of the juvenile season.

Early wagering indicated that Occupation, from the stables of John Marsch of Chicago, would go to the post a short-priced favorite of an army emergency relief day crowd.

Second in the early odds was Mrs. John D. Hertz's Count Fleet.

Take Advantage of Trojan Jinx on Road

Visitors' First Two Passes Turn Into Mansfield Touchdowns

THAT Portsmouth Trojan jinx was riding high, wide and handsome in the Mansfield high school backfield last night at Stadium field as the Tygers chalked up a 28-7 victory before a crowd held down by Halloween festivities to a mere 4,000 fans.

The jinx, which says Portsmouth can't win a game away from home, or even play football away from its own bailiwick, took care of the Trojans early, and good.

It let Portsmouth get the ball in midfield twice early in the ball game, and then directed two passes straight into the arms of waiting Tygers. And both intercepted passes led to Mansfield touchdowns. Then the jinx leered caustically at the visiting Trojans and retired to the bench until the third period.

* * *

Portsmouth took advantage of the absence of Mr. Jinx to score a touchdown in the second quarter, but with the score 14-7 at halftime in favor of the Tygers, Mr. Jinx returned to action again, and speedily took care of that situation.

* * *

He caused a Portsmouth fumble that led to one Mansfield touchdown, and blew up a breeze for a seven-yard Portsmouth punt to set the stage for the final marker chalked up by the Tygers.

And if the Mansfield Tygers have an extra monogram to give away this fall, they should reserve one for a gentleman named Mr. Portsmouth Traveling Jinx. For the record shows that Portsmouth made 10 first downs and Mansfield three.

But Mansfield made its yardage in big chunks, while Portsmouth got three first downs on penalties. The record also shows the two teams about even on rushing the ball with Mansfield getting 140 yards and Portsmouth 143, but the Tygers battled harder on defense, tossing their opponents for a total loss of 86 yards while Mansfield was losing only eight.

Penalties slowed up the game to a dreary stalemate as Mansfield was penalized eight times for a total of 110 yards while Portsmouth drew eight penalties for a loss of 77 yards. One of the Portsmouth penalties came on a Mansfield try for point, accounting for the odd figure in the Portsmouth total.

But back to the game as it was played.

* * *

The contest was only two minutes old when Roland Schmidt intercepted the first Portsmouth pass tossed by Lloyd Flamer, stellar colored halfback, and returned 16 yards to the Trojan 40.

* * *

Schmidt lost two yards when a mixup in signals brought a blocker back the wrong way and straight into Schmidt's path. Mike Zivkoff picked up three yards, and Jim Burrage got six on an end around. Frank Rachel sneaked for a first down on the Trojan 26.

And there little Mike Zivkoff, on a reverse, started off his left tackle, cut back, and found himself in the clear with an easy 26-yard jaunt to the goal line. Bill Lewis booted the extra point.

Lewis kicked off out of bounds, and Portsmouth took the ball on its own 35. On the first play Bill Snowden broke through to toss Flamer for a one-yard loss. Wales made a couple yards, and then Lewis intercepted a Flamer pass and raced 32 yards before he was forced out of bounds on the Portsmouth three-yard mark. Rachel made the touchdown on two sneaks and Lewis kicked the extra point to make it 14-0.

In the remaining first period time Portsmouth finally discovered it had the advantage of a terrific wind which kept the Tygers back in their own territory. Flamer got off a 46-yard boot over the Tyger goal line, and Lewis' return kick went only to the Mansfield 23. Portsmouth got a first down on the ten and advanced the ball to the seven before the period ended.

* * *

Mansfield held on the two-yard line, but Lewis' punt was partially blocked and Portsmouth recovered on the three. It took the Trojans three plays before Wales sneaked over for the touchdown from the one-yard mark. Monk kicked the extra point and the half ended 14-7.

* * *

Early in the third period Art Goettle recovered a Portsmouth fumble on the visitors' 21-yard line. And Mike Zivkoff, on the same play which gave him his first period touchdown, went off tackle on a reverse, cut back down the middle, and raced 21 yards for a touchdown. Once more Lewis booted the extra point and it was 21-7.

Lewis kicked off over the goal line and Portsmouth took the ball on its 20 and immediately lost seven yards on a fumble. Snyder tossed Flamer for another seven-yard loss and Flamer's punt went only seven yards to the 15. Zivkoff lost a yard, but Schmidt, on a perfectly executed bootlegger play, hid the ball until he was well past the Portsmouth secondary, and trotted 16 yards for a touchdown. Lewis kicked his fourth point of the night.

Numerous substitutions by both teams kept the ball in midfield the rest of the game, with neither team making a serious threat.

Three Games Top Program

Pre-War Crowds Turn Out For Grid Battles.

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK —(AP)— A trio of sectional spats monopolize the national spotlight today with the unbeaten football teams of Georgia and Alabama tangling at Atlanta; all-winning Ohio State the guest of once-tied Wisconsin; and Army's triumphant Cadets mixing with Penn's once-beaten Quakers at Philadelphia.

And the way the fans have responded to those choice morsels you would think the contests were being played in the pre-Pearl Harbor days Penn officials estimated that 70,000 would sit in on the proceedings at Philadelphia; the Alabama-Georgia game has been a sell-out for two weeks and there'll be 40,000 filled seats at Madison, Wis.

* * *

Virtually all the star players in the three casts were fit for action except at Philadelphia where Earl Blaik, coach of Army, named Bob Woods to start in place of the injured Ralph (Santa Fe) Hill at right half. Capt. Hank Mazur, the other injured Army halfback, will start. Penn's forces are all set for the fray.

* * *

Wisconsin's Elray Hirsch and Pat Harder, both ailing much of the week, will be in at the kick-off against Ohio State and the argument the past seven days in Dixie has been which of the two teams, Alabama or Georgia, is the healthier.

Although the Cleveland meeting between Navy and Notre Dame doesn't have the glamour of the top three it probably will be witnessed by the largest crowd, with officials expecting 80,000. It will be Coach Frank Leahy's first chance to see the Irish in action since he left for a 17-day stay in the hospital and the Ramblers openened a winning streak.

Neither will there be many empty seats at Durham, N. C., where the revived Dixie Blue Devils, their casualty list wiped out, entertain the unbeaten forces of Georgia Tech. The Dukes never have lost to Georgia Tech on their home field but enter today's fray as the underdogs.

Not only is the day's schedule heavy in quality, it also promises quantity.

The mid-west, as usual, leads the way with Iowa's pre-flight Cadets expected to handle Bob Cowan and Billy Hillenbrand of Indiana; Illinois hopeful of starting another win streak at the expense of Michigan; Minnesota at Northwestern, Purdue invading Iowa and the rampant Missouri Tigers taking on the Great Lakes outfit at St. Louis.

BOXER DIES

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Al Jackson, 28, former state amateur middleweight boxing champion and professional boxer, died yesterday. For the last five years he had operated a cafe.

Burrage Gets Six Yards on End-Around

Here's action in the making in the first period of last night's 28-7 victory scored by the Mansfield high Tygers over Portsmouth at Stadium field. Jim Burrage, led by Art Goettle on an end-around play, is shown just about to bump into Lloyd Flamer, colored halfback of the Trojans. Burrage made six yards on the play.

Frosh Stars For Penguins

Leads Youngstown to Intersectional Win.

(By Associated Press)

Al Perl, freshman triple threater, scored two touchdowns last night as Youngstown college trampled Illinois Wesleyan 35 to 6 in a homecoming football game.

Freshman Conzi Lucci scored another touchdown for the Penguins, and Tony Aiello and Joe De Rose one each. Bob Coughlin placekicked three extra points and Youngstown was awarded a safety when Max Armentrout was tackled behind his own goal line after fumbling a punt for Wesleyan.

* * *

Seventeen games involving Ohio college teams were on today's grid menu. Ohio State invaded Wisconsin in the top tilt, while in the state Otterbein sought its fourth straight Ohio conference victory in a game with Denison at Westerville.

* * *

Other games today:

U. S. coast guard (Manhattan Beach, N. Y.,) at Toledo (night), Wooster at Mt. Union, Heidelberg at Capital; Kent State at Bowling Green; Kenyon at Oberlin; Boston U. at Cincinnati; Oxford Naval Trainees vs. Findlay at Hamilton; Baldwin Wallace at Akron; Ohio Wesleyan at Case (night); Wright-Patterson Field at West Liberty (W. Va.) Teachers; Ohio U. at Miami; Marshall at Dayton (night); Bluffton at Grand Rapids, Mich

Mauriello-Bivins Bout In Offing

NEW YORK —(AP)— Boxing's war-time "duration champ" of the heavyweights probably will come out of a November 27 Madison Square Garden bout between Tami Mauriello and Jimmy Bivins.

While Mauriello showed plenty of power in the stretch to overhaul the tiring Des Moines veteran Lee Savold, in the last two heats, with a ten-round decision in the Garden last night and get the shot with Bivins, he didn't uncover anything that puts him in Joe Louis' league yet.

COURSE ABANDONED

DAYTON —(AP)— Another sign of the times:

The 300-acre layout of the Northmoor Golf and Country club, established in 1929, will be turned into a cattle ranch within two week.

Fight Results

BOSTON—George Martin, 147, Boston, outpointed Ralph Zanelli, 145, Providence, R. I. (10).

DETROIT—Jimmy Edgar, 149 Detroit knocked out Tony Motisi, 146½, Chicago (1).

HOLLYWOOD—Manuel Ortiz, 120, El Centro Cal., won by technical knockout over Nat Corum, 121½, Portland, Ore. (6).

Walrick Sets Moose Pace

Four Keglers Collect Scores Over 600 Mark.

Paul Walrick paced Moose league bowlers at Colony alleys last night with a 623 total on games of 195-205-223. Brig Young chalked up 619 with 221-231-167, Johnny Bernat had 613 with 236-178-199, and Cliff Forsythe hit 609 with 233-194-182.

Bernat's 236 was high game for the league, while Harold LeMunyon had second high with 233.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

NEW YORK — (AP) — There's many a slip—which is about as good as any to sum up the prospects for the big-league hockey season that gets started tonight. . . . Nobody knows how it will end, but you can figure that its showing will be a good indication of the future of baseball and other sports . . For instance, with about 40 per cent of last year's players already in the armed forces, hockey clubs are loading up with guys like Ebbie Goodfellow and Sweeney Schriner, who either had retired or were about to, they're using former third-stringers and minor leaguers in some of the more important spots and bringing in as many 17 and 18-year-old rookies as they can.

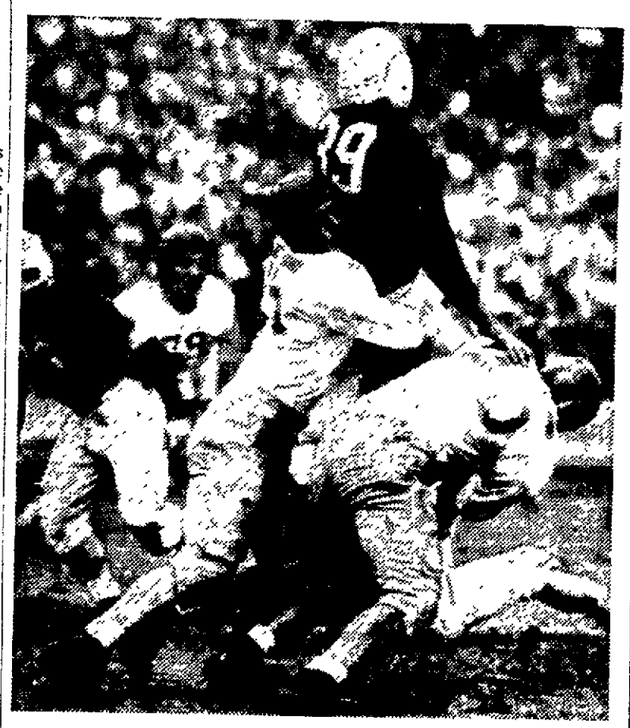
TODAY'S TIP

Tip on today's Georgia-Alabama game: Wally Butts, Georgia coach, never has lost twice to the same team — and Alabama beat the Crackers last year . . . Called upon to tell New York football writers something about his old high-school coaching rival, Paul Brown of Ohio State, Ensign Larry Ghigor of the Manhattan Beach Coast Guard told them what a great guy he is, then concluded: "I'd still like to be associated with a team that knocks the socks off him." . . . Praise Brown and pass the ammunition.

Carrying the Ball Carrier



We've seen that phrase, "carrying the ball," many times. But this is the first time we've seen 'em "carrying the man" in a football game. The ball carrier is Sheller of Stanford. The polite gentlemen carrying him are Southern California linemen. Action is from a game in San Francisco.

MASSILLON UNBEATEN IN 50 STRAIGHT GAMES

MASSILLON — (AP) — The Tigers of Massillon Washington high school have run their string of undefeated games to 50.

The latest victims, 32 to 0, were the Warren Harding high Presidents. Left Halfback Bob Graber and Right halfback Keve Bray each got a pair of touchdowns, Quarterback Cardinal had one, and although Fullback Chuck Holt's only scoring was a pair of extra points, he outgained the entire Harding team from scrimmage.

Undefeated Teams Clash

Ohio and Wisconsin Battle For Top Spot.

MADISON, Wis. —(AP)— The Western conference's only undefeated football teams this season —Ohio State and Wisconsin— clashed today and with victory went the role of favorite to capture the Big Ten title. A crowd of about 40,000 was expected for the game, one of the nation's top attractions. The game was the 13th between the two elevens.

* * *

The Badgers, seeking their first win over the Buckeyes, the nation's No. 1 eleven, since 1918, banked on Sophomore Elroy Hirsch and Fullback Pat Harder, both of whom have been handicapped by ailments.

* * *

Gene Fekete, one of the country's highest scorers, and his backfield partner, Paul Sarringhaus, were depended upon to power Ohio State to its fourth conference win, and its sixth straight victory of the season.

"We're ready," he exclaimed. "The team that gets the breaks is going to win—and we mean to get them."

"We came here knowing it would be a tough contest and if we lose we will know that Wisconsin is better than we are," asserted Coach Paul Brown of Ohio State.

* * *

Brown said his squad was in first rate condition, but that Dante Lavelli, first string end, would not start and might not play due to the injury that has kept him on the sidelines since the Southern California game three weeks ago.

* * *

Anticipating a thrilling contest, Wisconsin homecoming rooters last night staged a celebration described by veteran police officers as the wildest in many years.

Twenty-six persons were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct and malicious destruction of property and officers reported laying down 33 tear gas barrages in their efforts to disperse the celebrants marching from the campus to Capitol Square.

"Woods and Waters"

By YUNCKER BROS.

An interesting experiment was conducted by Michigan Conservation Department scientists, who examined more than 160 ducks, taken from hunters in seeking information about lead poisoning. Using X-ray and flueroscope, it was found that 60 per cent of all ducks killed, had only four pellets or less in their bodies. In many cases a single pellet sufficed for the kill. It seems that most of the birds were hit by shots not properly centered, or by an open pattern near the limit of its range.

* * *

"You can't arrest me, I'm crazy," said a fisherman to a Michigan warden, who caught him with a fine string of bass taken out of season. And when the warden brought the fisherman before a judge, it turned out that he was right. He was an inmate of a state hospital, and so not subject to either jail or fine.

The Florida burrowing owl, instead of nesting in trees, lives in a hole which he sometimes excavates to a depth of eight feet under ground.

Commissioner Don Waters reported an all time high of 87,436 ringneck pheasants have been raised and released this year. Hunters should have the best report in years, beginning Nov. 20th. And the wise hunter will get ready now, by supplying his needs in guns, ammunition, hunting clothing, etc., from Yuncker's complete selections, while they are yet available.

* * *

Quaking aspen is the "nurse" crop in forests. Following forest fires, aspen groves quickly appear and provide shelter for the evergreens which follow. In the fall the aspen leaves provide one of the most gorgeous sights in all nature.

* * *

A gray wolf pack in Henry County is being hunted by farmers, who report the loss of 60 sheep and about 1000 chickens so far this year, due to raids of the killers. Two of the wolves have already been shot, and another and larger hunt is planned in an attempt to wipe them all out.

Hermans Tie For Loop Lead

L. Keller Rolls High In Women's B-League.

Daughters of Herman No. 2 rolled into a first-place tie with Mansfield Tire Service in the women's Commercial "B" bowling league at Colony alleys last night with a 2-1 win over Applan Tire Retreading while Tire Service was dropping a 1-2 decision to Ringside Nite club.

L. Keller turned in high total with 453 while D. Kreisher had high game of 191, and Smith had 170. Painters had high team total of 2002.

JUDGE PUFFLE— By Gene Ahern

GREAT CHAP, YOUR UNCLE BERT!— WE'VE JOINED UP WITH HIM TO FORM A SMALL CIVILIAN ARMY, AND START OUT MONDAY ON A VERY IMPORTANT MISSION,— WHICH HE SAYS WILL LATER COME DOWN ON THE HEADS OF THE NAZIS!
YOUR UNCLE WILL BE THE GINERAL, AND WE BE HIS COLONEL AND SERJINT!— JOIN UP, AND BE A CORPORAL!
HE DIDN'T TELL YOU WHAT THE PLAN OF ACTION IS TO BE, EH?
UM— I'VE LEARNED FROM THE PAST TO BE WARY OF UNCLE BERT!
YOU'LL BE IN IT, JUDGE!

'TOBACCO ROAD' HIT BY CENSOR

SYDNEY, Aust. —(INS)— "Tobacco Road" may have been one of the most phenomenal stage successes in theater history and it may have made a fortune for its producers but the Sydney, Australia, censor failed to see any favorable merits in the script.

So heavily did he censor it, in fact, an Australian legitimate theater company was forced to disband and cancel the presentation.

STOCK PRICES MOVE UPWARD FRACTIONALLY

September Retail Sales Set New Record For 1942, Report Discloses.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Small fractional advances predominated in today's early stock market proceedings.

Higher at a quiet opening were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania, Eastman Kodak, Chrysler, General Electric and Goodyear. A shade lower were General Motors, Anaconda and American Telephone.

Those favoring merchandising securities noted the summary of the commerce department which placed retail sales in September at $4,879,000,000, second only to the record month of December, 1941.

A constructive indicator was seen in compilations of manufacturing and wholesale members of the Chicago Association of Credit Men disclosing collections throughout the United States in the past month were the best in 20 years.

GERMAN PLANS UPSET, SAY REDS

000 or 5,000 killed every day at Stalingrad, and sometimes a whole division (15,000 men) were killed or wounded in 24 hours.

Other dispatches said German assaults inside Stalingrad had been on a diminished scale since Thursday. The Germans began a new drive against the industrial area with four divisions of infantry (60,000 men) and many tanks and planes. Now communiques were speaking of attacks by a battalion (1,000 men).

At both Stalingrad and Nalchik, the Germans frenzied attacks were dictated by winter. It has snowed in both areas; at any time the Germans can expect blizzards that may mean their disaster.

The Germans presumably expected to set up a winter line if and when they take Stalingrad. But they have been at the job 69 days. From Nalchik (which they claim to have taken) they hoped to drive to Ordzhonikidze, terminus of the Georgian military highway, 50 miles to the southeast.

The Georgian highway leads over the already freezing Caucasus mountains to Tiflis and the comparatively balmy temperatures of trans-Caucasus, where the Germans might fight all winter. There is manganese, a strategic war material around Ordzhonikidze.

Last midnight, the Soviet high command reported another German advance in the Nalchik area. The Germans had been advancing steadily almost since they opened the drive three or four days ago.

On the other Caucasian battle front, around the Black sea base of Tuapse, the noon communique reported only a raid by a Soviet reconnaissance unit of an enemy headquarters. Sixty Germans were killed, the headquarters was wrecked and the Russians took documents and prisoners back with them.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's relief offensive northwest of Stalingrad was characterized by "local fighting" yesterday, the communique said, although on one sector Soviet forces penetrated enemy positions, killed 200 Germans in hand to hand battle and captured one gun, two trench mortars, five machine guns, a radio transmitter and two trucks loaded with ammunition.

SUPPLY'S LOW

Farms Had Only 42 Per Cent of Normal Help Oct. 1.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio's farm labor supply was only 42 per cent of normal and the demand was 103 per cent on Oct. 1 despite the highest wage rates paid since records were started in October 1923, the Ohio crop reporting service disclosed today.

Most critical labor shortages were reported in the southeastern district of the state, with 36 per cent of normal supply, and in the north central region with 39 per cent.

CHAPTER IV

"Was I honestly?" she asked them.

"You'll be hearing from us very soon," Mr. Nevins said.

Then she was back at the studio gates. Talking to the gateman was Bruce Nolan—his arm still bandaged. She was delighted to see him.

"Why did you leave the hospital?"

"I was bored—"

"But you shouldn't have," she protested, but she was delighted to see him.

"How did it go?" he asked.

"They said it was fine."

"Where are you going now?" he asked.

"I don't know. I suppose it's lunch time."

"I live near here," he said. "Let's go there—and have something to eat. I'm a pretty good cook—with a can opener."

Bruce led her into a small courtyard. There was a strip of grass in the center, and around it ranged a dozen low-roofed bungalows, all alike. In Nolan's home was a low divan against the wall and two comfortable leather armchairs. And a table. One side of the wall was covered with books. She picked one up, Walt Whitman's "Leaves of Grass." He smiled at her inquiringly.

"I brought them from home."

"Where was home?"

"Colorado."

"A ranch?"

"My father was a judge in Pueblo. I studied law, got my degree. And then I knew I didn't want to be a lawyer. I worked on a cattle ranch. I came to Los Angeles 18 months ago for a vacation. I liked it here. And stayed." He did not tell Livia that his family was wealthy and that one of his reasons for coming to California was to get away from the enervating influence of his father's wealth.

While Bruce spoke, Livia cooked some eggs and made toast in the tiny kitchen. Bruce leaned against the door.

"Say, those eggs look good!"

"I'm starving," she told him, "When anything exciting happens in my life, I always forget to eat."

* * *

She should have been uncomfortable sitting there eating a meal with a man she barely knew, but she felt happy and relaxed.

"I'll wash the dishes," she said afterward, but he stopped her.

There's a boy who does all that."

She curled up on the divan.

"Just rest—don't talk," he said. He fetched the pillow from his bed and put it under her head.

When she opened her eyes, he was sprawled in an armchair, staring in front of him, smoking a cigaret.

"I wonder when I'll know about the test," she said dreamily.

He called the studio and asked for Mr. Nevins. He talked about his arm, then casually—

"Oh, about Livia Clarkson—I said Livia Clarkson—the girl who won the 'Charm' competition—when will you know about her test? Tomorrow? Thanks . . . Yes, I'm feeling fine. Good-bye—and thanks."

He turned to the waiting girl.

"Some big-shot will look at it tomorrow, and—"

"I thought of you during the love scenes," she told him with a half smile, and then to herself, "I'm flirting with him, but it's nice." The day would be incomplete without this.

"I want him to kiss me," she decided and walked defiantly toward him. He was faintly smiling and looked at her lips as she raised them to him. He kissed them gently. And then the corners of his mouth were laughing. She drew back offended.

"That's what you wanted, wasn't it?" he said, "It's fun. Let's do it again."

But he was mocking her, and she felt foolish. She had approached him like a queen conferring a favor. His laugh was infectious. But now he was kissing her differently; a passionate kiss that left her breathless. His uninjured arm held her close. .

"I'm in love with you," he told her casually.

Did she love him? She didn't know. It had been such a wonderful, confusing day. She gently disengaged herself.

"Come on, I'll take you home in a taxi." Bruce gave her back the green hat—"Put it on, you look too beautiful without it."

At the top of her street she said good-bye to him.

"We'll have lunch again tomorrow?"

"Yes."

She watched his taxi turn the corner. Her mother was waiting outside the door of their home.

"Now for it," said Livia and slowly went inside.

"Who was the man, Livia?" Mrs. Clarkson said, following her into the house, "A new beau?"

Livia threw her hat onto the divan. Why did her mother talk this way when there was only one subject to be discussed now? Mrs. Clarkson sat stiffly in a hard-backed chair. She seemed calm enough, but the nervous drumming of her fingers on her lap betrayed her. Perhaps her mother hadn't seen the story in the "Gazette."

But no. The paper was on the table. Her mother followed her glance. A brief uncomfortable silence fell between them. Then Livia cried:

"Oh, say it, mother!"

"Say what?" said Mrs. Clarkson with irritating slowness. Livia shook her head, laughing shortly.

"Let's get it over with, mother—but nothing you say will make any difference.

"In that case, I'll save my breath."

"You mean," cried Livia joyously, "you're not going to object to my movie career? Oh, mother," Livia flung her arms about the rigid body. Mrs. Clarkson gently pushed her away.

"It doesn't mean that I approve. I hate everything connected with pictures. But you're eighteen. I can't stop you. And even if I could, I wouldn't. I'm not that sort of a fool. You have your father's obstinacy. I don't want to drive you out of this house. Go ahead. Be a movie actress. But don't expect me to be happy about it. I still think it's a vile industry."

"Mother, but why—" Livia began.

They were interrupted by the entrance of Vera and George Maxwell. Vera sighed relievedly as she looked from Livia to her mother. She had expected to find her mother in tears and Livia defiant. She kissed Livia and whispered—

"I'm so glad for you, darling."

"Two to one on the 'Charm Girl?'" said George. George earned his living by the race-track and was given to racing terms in his speech. Vera looked at him warningly. Mrs. Clarkson went into the kitchen to prepare dinner with the colored girl.

* * *

Then the restraint holding back Livia's excitement burst forth. She danced her sister around the room and chanted:

"The 'Charm Girl' couldn't be happier." And then flung herself breathlessly on the divan. George lit his pipe and asked:

"What are you going to do with all that dough?"

"Oh, yes," said Vera, "I was forgetting. How did the test go? And why didn't you tell us yesterday?"

"Mother—I didn't want a row. I'm a coward I guess."

"You're not a coward," said Vera fondly. Livia smiled at her.

"What sort of contract did they give you?" George said. "They'll gyp you sure as anything, those studio crooks."

"I'll know tomorrow."

"Better let me see it," said George. "Say, if you want a good investment, I know of some interesting deals."

"Now, George, don't bother Livia," said Vera.

Livia stretched happily on the divan. She thought of Bruce. It was exciting to remember the way he had kissed her. Had he meant that about being in love with her? Again she wondered, "Am I in love with him?" But even if she were, it would be foolish to tie herself to a stunt-man at the beginning of her wonderful career.

"I'll ask for a thousand a week," said Livia.

"A thousand a week?" echoed Vera, "Is there that much money in the world?"

"I saw a real star this morning in the studio," said Livia casually.

"What's she like?" breathed Vera.

"Wonderful!"

Mrs. Clarkson's re-entry put an end to the conversation.

After supper, Livia sat with her mother on the porch. There was so much she wanted to say to her. If only her mother would give her an opening. Finally she flung down her book, and cut into her mother's thoughts.

"If I get a contract—you won't have to work any more. No more teaching—"

"You must understand this once and for all. We, Vera and I, have nothing to do with the movies or any money you may earn from them. Nothing has happened as far as we are concerned to change our plans for the school. If you're not with us, we'll get someone else." Her voice was bitter. Livia gave up. It was too bad her mother felt this way. But her negative acceptance was better than antagonism.
